PLAINTIFFS' NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION FOR FINAL APPROVAL OF CLASS ACTION SETTLEMENT

TO ALL PARTIES AND THEIR ATTORNEYS OF RECORD:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on May 20, 2022, at 9:00 a.m., in Courtroom 7 of the above-entitled Court located at 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94102, the Honorable Maxine M. Chesney presiding, Plaintiffs Baerbel McKinney-Drobnis, Joseph B. Piccola, and Camille Berlese in the matter titled McKinney-Drobnis, et al., v. Massage Envy Franchising, LLC, Case No. 3:16-cv-06450-MMC, will and hereby do move the Court, pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23, for an Order:

1. Granting final approval to the Class Action Settlement Agreement filed March 15, 2019, [ECF No. 103] and preliminarily approved by the Court on June 7, 2019 [ECF No. 114];
2. Certifying the Settlement Class, as defined in the Court's Order on Preliminary Approval, for settlement purposes pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a) and 23(b)(3);
3. Appointing Plaintiffs Baerbel McKinney-Drobnis, Joseph B. Piccola, and Camille Berlese as Class Representatives;
4. Affirming Jeffrey R. Krinsk of Finkelstein & Krinsk LLP as Class Counsel;
5. Approving Class Counsel's costs and attorneys' fees;
5. Approving Plaintiffs' incentive awards; and
6. Finding that the Class Notice Program has been adequate and reasonable, has met the requirements of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23 and due process, and has constituted the best notice practicable under the circumstances

This Motion is supported by the accompanying Memorandum of Points and Authorities; the Declarations of Jeffrey R. Krinsk and David A. Rotman. submitted herewith and exhibits thereto; all papers and records on file in this action; the argument of counsel; and such other matters as the Court may consider.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

Plaintiffs filed this Action, on November 4, 2016, against Massage Envy Franchising, LLC (“MEF”) challenging increases in monthly membership fees that they and members of the Class paid to independently owned and operated Massage Envy® franchise locations (“ME Locations”). First Amended Complaint (“FAC”) [Doc. 60]. Plaintiffs allege that their membership agreements preclude increases in their monthly membership fees and that those fees were improperly increased in varying increments during the Class Period in violation of the membership agreements and other applicable law. Id. MEF has challenged this litigation at every turn, raising a number of issues before both this Court and the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. Despite three years of contentious litigation, the parties were able to achieve a fair and reasonable compromise of the Class’s claims despite the risk associated with continued litigation and prevailing with this case.

The Settlement was the product of more than a year of arm’s-length negotiations between the Parties, including multiple mediation sessions before David Rotman, Esq. The negotiations were informed by the Court’s ruling on MEF’s pleadings challenges, extensive discovery efforts, the review of thousands of pages of documents, and Plaintiffs’ depositions. Accordingly, the Settlement appropriately reflects the realities and risks of litigation and is well calibrated to the facts of the case. This is particularly true, given that the parties were preparing for cross motions for summary judgment and class certification briefing shortly before executing the Stipulated Class Action Settlement and Release (the “Settlement Agreement”).<sup>1</sup>

The Court finally approved this Settlement on February 28, 2020. Minute Order, ECF No. 145; Order on Final Approval, ECF No. 146, at ¶ 14. In doing so, the Court carefully considered the arguments of the parties, as well as the objections of Kurt Oreshack. Id. Ultimately, Mr. Oreshack appealed the Court’s decision. See McKinney-Drobnis v. Oreshack, 16 F.4th 594, 612 (9th Cir. 2021). While the Ninth Circuit agreed with Mr. Oreshack that the coupon provisions of CAFA applied, and that the Court should conduct a rigorous analysis of the Settlement terms, the Ninth Circuit took no

1 position regarding the fairness of the underlying Settlement. See generally id. Instead, the Ninth 2 Circuit remanded the case for the Court's further consideration.

3 Since the appeal, the parties returned to mediation and agreed to amend the Settlement 4 Agreement to address any of the concerns that may remain following the Ninth Circuit's decision. In 5 doing so, the parties agreed to increase the Vouchers provided to the Settlement Class from $10 million 6 to $11 million, to remove any clear sailing provision from the Settlement Agreement, and to provide 7 that the portion of attorneys' fees attributable to the Vouchers would only be provided after the 8 redemption period ends. Additionally, the parties have provided detailed estimates regarding the value 9 of the Injunctive Relief provided by the Settlement as well as the estimated redemption rate of the 10 Vouchers provided.

11 This information confirms the Court's initial finding, the proposed Settlement provides 12 compensation to Settlement Class Members that is fair, just, reasonable, and adequate under the 13 circumstances. Each Settlement Class Members, who timely submitted a Voucher Request, with a 14 $39.78, $79.56, $119.34, $159.12, or $198.90 Voucher, in amounts corresponding to the monthly 15 membership fee increases each Class Member paid. The Vouchers may be used to purchase goods 16 and/or services at any ME Locations (often with no additional money from a Settlement Class 17 Member) and are fully transferrable and aggregable. MEF also has agreed to Injunctive Relief by 18 adopting an updated template membership agreement that requires each ME Location to provide at 19 least forty-five days' advance written notice before any future increases in monthly membership fees, 20 while reducing the cancelation period to ten days. Based on an expert review of the benefits already 21 provided, this Injunctive Relief has saved consumers $2,349,887 between June 2019 and December 22 2021 and will save consumers another $3,736,016 from 2022 through 2024 (the estimated end of the 23 two-year Injunctive Relief period).

24 The reaction to this Settlement has been overwhelmingly positive. The participation rate 25 exceeds the original estimates made by Class Counsel in its Motion for Preliminary Approval and 26 exceeds the rates in similar consumer class settlements. Additionally, only seven of the approximately 27 1.7 million Class Members filed objections (0.0004% of the Class), and there were only 351 Class 28 Members who opted-out of the Settlement (just 0.02% of the Class). Accordingly, the Court should 1 approve this Settlement.

2 II. RELEVANT FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

3 The procedural background, facts of the dispute, and settlement negotiations are thoroughly 4 described in Plaintiffs' Motion for Preliminary Approval of Class Action Settlement, ECF No. 103, 5 Plaintiffs' Motion for Attorneys' Fees, Costs, and Incentive Award, ECF No. 119-1, and the 6 concurrently filed Declarations of Jeffery R. Krinsk in support thereof. Thus, Plaintiffs will not fully 7 recite this extensive history here. But, some recitation of general information regarding the history of 8 this action, however, remains prudent.

9 MEF operates as a franchisor of spa services with over 1,200 franchised locations throughout 10 the United States. As part of its business model, MEF's franchisees sell memberships entitling 11 members to monthly membership services, among other things, in exchange for a monthly fee.
12 Plaintiffs filed a complaint alleging that MEF unilaterally increased the price of its franchisees' 13 monthly memberships in violation of the members' membership agreements.

14 The initial phases of this litigation were fraught with motion practice. On January 27, 2017, 15 Plaintiffs filed a Motion to Strike Defendant's Affirmative Defenses. See ECF No. 24. The same day, 16 MEF filed its Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings or, in the Alternative, to Strike Class Action
17 Allegations. See ECF No. 26. MEF's Motion advanced two arguments that: (1) Plaintiffs' claims 18 were released by a prior settlement (the Hahn settlement), and (2) Plaintiffs' counsel was legally 19 prohibited from representing a class of both current and former Massage Envy members. Id.

20 The Court granted Plaintiffs' Motion to Strike as to twenty-five of MEF's twenty-nine 21 Affirmative Defenses and denied MEF's Motion finding, in part, that the Hahn settlement could not 22 have released the claims at bar under the "Identical Factual Predicate" doctrine. See Order Denying 23 Defendant's Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings, ECF No. 49. MEF later moved this Court to 24 certify that order for interlocutory appeal, which was denied. See Order Denying Defendant's Motion 25 for Certification of Order for Interlocutory Appeal, ECF No. 68.

26 MEF, thereafter, petitioned the Ninth Circuit for a Writ of Mandamus to vacate the Court's 27 Orders on the Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings [ECF No. 49] and Interlocutory Appeal [ECF
28 No. 68]. Massage Envy Franchising, LLC v. United States District Court, No. 17-71722, ECF No. 1

1 (9th Cir.). The Ninth Circuit ordered that the issue be fully briefed. Id., ECF No. 2. MEF’s petition, 2 however, was denied. Id., ECF No. 5.

3 The parties also engaged in extensive discovery. Plaintiffs propounded fifty-five document
4 requests, twenty-five interrogatories, and two document subpoenas. Declaration of Jeffrey R. Krinsk
5 in Support of Motion for Preliminary Approval (“Krinsk Decl. I”), ECF No. 103-1, at ¶ 41. Plaintiffs 6 reviewed over 7,000 pages of documents, and thousands of documents from the Hahn litigation. Id., 7 ¶ 46. Additionally, Plaintiffs were preparing for the scheduled depositions of MEF’s key corporate 8 officers at the time of settlement. Id., ¶ 43.

9 MEF had similarly issued multiple document requests, interrogatories, and requests for 10 admissions. Id., ¶¶ 44. Defendant deposed each of the named Plaintiffs and subpoenaed several of 11 Plaintiffs’ family members and friends. Id., ¶¶ 45. Plaintiffs successfully moved to quash several of 12 these subpoenas. Order Regarding Joint Discovery Letter, ECF No. 87.

13 Settlement discussions did not proceed in earnest until October 2017 and the Parties eventually 14 agreed to mediation before David A. Rotman in February 2018. Krinsk Decl. I, ¶¶ 47, 50. The Parties 15 were unable to come to an agreement at this mediation. Id.

16 Over the following months, the Parties’ counsel were able to narrow the points of disagreement 17 concerning key material terms. Id., ¶ 51. The Parties scheduled a follow-up mediation for August, 18 but disagreement between the parties caused the mediation to be cancelled. Id., ¶ 52. Counsel then 19 resumed litigation efforts. Id., ¶ 53; Order Lifting Stay of Case, ECF No. 96. It was at this time that 20 MEF filed its Motion for Relief from the Magistrate’s order regarding the parties’ Joint Discovery 21 Letter. ECF No. 97.

22 Plaintiffs were simultaneously preparing to move for class certification and a potential motion 23 for summary judgment. Krinsk Decl. I, ¶ 54. The Parties previously had represented to the Court that 24 “MEF anticipates filing a motion for summary judgment prior to Plaintiffs’ anticipated motion for 25 class certification” and “Plaintiffs... may move for summary adjudication regarding Plaintiffs’ 26 contract.” See Stipulation Re: Schedule for Briefing, ECF No. 70, at pp. 1-2; see also Order Lifting 27 Stay of Case, ECF No. 96 (setting a May 17, 2019 deadline for Plaintiffs to file their motion for class 28 certification). However, the parties returned to mediation before Mr. Rotman and were thereafter able

1 to agree as to a settlement. Krinsk Decl. I, ¶ 55.

2 In exchange for the negotiated release of claims that were actually litigated in this case, MEF 3 originally committed to issue $10,000,000 in Vouchers that can be redeemed at any ME Location for 4 retail products, massage sessions, enhancements, and/or facial sessions. Settlement Agreement, at ¶ 5 11. The Vouchers are 100% transferrable and may be aggregated. Id. Participating Settlement Class 6 Members are provided sixteen months from the date the Vouchers are issued to redeem them. The 7 only other limitations on the Vouchers are that they are not redeemable for cash and cannot be used 8 for monthly membership fees or to pay tips to employees of the ME Locations. Id.

9 The Settlement also provides important Injunctive Relief intended to provide real monetary 10 benefits to Settlement Class Members (and other consumers). MEF's new template Membership 11 Agreement requires at least forty-five days' written notice before any future monthly fee increase and 12 reduces the cancelation period to ten days. Id., at §§ 14-15; see also Settlement Agreement, at Ex. 5 13 (for the proposed Membership Agreements). This concession is a substantial change from the ten 14 days' price increase notice period and thirty-day cancelation period previously provided by prior 15 Membership Agreements. These terms allow Massage Envy members a reasonable amount of time to 16 cancel, should they opt to do so, before incurring any price increase. Settlement Agreement, at § 15.
17 Additionally, it delays any potential price increase by, at least, thirty-five days, when compared to the 18 previous contractual terms.

19 Given the benefits provided, the Court approved the Settlement at the previous fairness 20 hearing. See Minute Order, ECF No. 145. This was no rubber-stamped approval. After hearing 21 extensive arguments from the parties and Mr. Oreshack's counsel, the Court reduced Plaintiffs 22 requested attorneys' fees and costs from the requested $3,300,000 to $2,612,500 in attorneys' fees and 23 to $65,593.05 in costs. Order on Final Approval, ECF No. 146, at ¶ 14. Additionally, the Court 24 reduced the incentive fees for each of the Named-Plaintiffs from $10,000 to $5,000. Id., at ¶ 15.

25 A single objector did not feel the same. When approving the Settlement, the Court overruled 26 the objections of Kurt Oreshack, who argued that argued that the Settlement represents a coupon 27 settlement under the Class Action Fairness Act ("CAFA"), the requested attorneys' fees are 28 disproportionate to the "coupon" benefit provided to the Class, and when combined with existence of 1 the purported reversionary aspects of the attorneys' fees and a "clear sailing clause," indicates a 2 collusive settlement. See generally, Oreshack Objection, ECF No. 124. Oreshack would later appeal 3 the Court's decision. Notice of Appeal, ECF No. 152.

4 Ultimately, the Ninth Circuit agreed with Mr. Oreshack that the CAFA coupon provisions 5 applied, but "express[ed] no opinion" on the fairness of the negotiated settlement McKinney-Drobnis, 6 16 F.4th at 612. The Ninth Circuit vacated the Court's approval of the Settlement and remanded the 7 case to the Court to "use the value of the redeemed vouchers as required by CAFA and to analyze the 8 pre-certification settlement agreement with heightened scrutiny." Id. Under CAFA, at section 1712, 9 the Court must separately calculate the portion of attorneys' fees paid to class counsel based on the 10 recovery of the coupons and the portion of fees that is not based upon on the coupon recovery (i.e.
11 injunctive relief). 28 U.S.C. § 1712(c).

12 Despite the appeal, the parties still believe the Settlement to be fair, reasonable, and adequate.
13 Nonetheless, parties agreed return to Mr. Rotman for additional mediation regarding the concerns 14 raised by the Ninth Circuit Opinion regarding CAFA and the heightened scrutiny required under In re
15 Bluetooth Headset Products Liability Litigation, 654 F.3d 935 (9th Cir. 2011). Declaration of Jeffrey
16 R. Krinsk in Support of Renewed Motion for Final Approval ("Krinsk Decl. II"), concurrently filed 17 herewith, at ¶ 77. The result of this mediation was positive. Class Counsel was able to have Massage 18 Envy Franchising, LLC agree to increase the minimum Voucher amount in the Settlement to account 19 for any increase in costs cause by inflation and to offset any reverter caused by the reduction of 20 Plaintiff's attorneys' fees. Id., at ¶¶ 78, 90. The parties also agreed to remove any clear sailing clause 21 and to provide that the portion of attorneys' fees attributable to the Vouchers would only be paid 22 following the redemption period. Id. The parties memorialized their Amendment to the Settlement 23 Agreement on March 29, 2022. Id., at ¶ 79, Ex A, the Amendment and Modification to Stipulated 24 Class Action Settlement and Release (the "Amendment").

25 Additionally, as the Injunctive Relief has already taken effect, the parties were able to do a 26 robust analysis of the monetary benefit resulting from the changes to the Membership Agreement.
27 The parties engaged Christian M. Dippon, Ph.D. to examine the value associated with the Injunctive 28 Relief provided by the Settlement and estimate potential redemption rates based on MEF's business

1 records. Dr. Dippon found that the Injunctive Relief provided $2,349,887 in value between June 2019
 2 and December 2021 and forecasts that the Class Members will receive additional value for 2022
 3 through 2024 equal to $3,736,016. Declaration of Luanne Sacks in Support of Plaintiffs' Renewed 4 Motion for Final Approval of Class Action Settlement ("Sacks Decl."), concurrently filed herewith, at 5 Ex. A ¶ 10. Therefore, the total value of the Injunctive Relief Measures (June 2019 through 2024) to 6 Class Members is $6,085,903. Id. In total, the Settlement provides over $17,000,000 in real relief to 7 the Class.

8 III. THE SETTLEMENT CLASS SATISFIES ALL REQUIREMENTS OF RULE 23 AND 9 SHOULD BE CERTIFIED

10 In its Preliminary Approval Order, the Court concluded that certification of a Settlement Class 11 is appropriate under Rule 23(a) and (b)(3). ECF No. 114 at 1-2. The Court certified the Settlement 12 Class at final approval and no party appealed this decision. However, in an abundance of caution, 13 Plaintiffs restate their argument that the Settlement Class is suitable for certification.

14 A. Rule 23(a)(1): The Settlement Class is Sufficiently Numerous

15 The proposed Settlement Class is both numerous and ascertainable. Based on the Class Data, 16 there are approximately 1.7 million Class Members. Krinsk Decl. I, ¶ 58; Declaration of Cameron R.
 17 Azari ("Azari Decl. II"), ECF No. 135-2, ¶ 15. Joinder of all Settlement Class Members would be 18 impracticable, and the numerosity requirement is satisfied. Slaven v. BP Am., Inc., 190 F.R.D. 649, 19 654 (C.D. Cal. 2000) (numerosity is typically satisfied when the class exceeds 40 members); Palmer 20 v. Stassinis, 233 F.R.D. 546, 549 (N.D. Cal. 2006) ("Joinder of 1,000 or more co-plaintiffs is clearly 21 impractical.").

22 B. Rule 23(a)(2): There are Common Questions of Law and Fact

23 The Court must next determine whether questions of law and fact common to the class are 24 substantially similar and predominate over questions affecting a class member individually.
 25 "Commonality requires the plaintiff to demonstrate that the class members 'have suffered the same 26 injury.'" Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. Dukes, 564 U.S. 338, 349 (2011). "All questions of fact and law 27 need not be common to satisfy the rule." Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1019, 1026 (9th Cir.
 28 1998). Rather, commonality is satisfied "if the named plaintiffs share at least one question of fact or

1 law with the grievances of the prospective class.” See Rodriguez v. Hayes, 591 F.3d 1105, 1122 (9th
2 Cir.2010) (citing Baby Neal for & by Kanter v. Casey, 43 F.3d 48, 56 (3d Cir.1994)).

3 At the heart of Plaintiffs’ lawsuit is the allegation of breach of contract claim. Each Settlement
4 Class Member was subject to identical or substantially similar Membership Agreements, with common 5 payment and modification clauses, and were allegedly injured by similar price increases. See generally
6 FAC; Hahn v. Massage Envy Franchising, LLC (“Hahn F”), No. 12CV153, 2014 WL 5099373, at *4-7 12 (S.D. Cal. Apr. 15, 2014). Plaintiff asserts that these common business practices, i.e. MEF’s 8 template Membership Agreements and pricing policy, allow the claims to be decided within a ‘single 9 stroke.’ See id. Egro, the Settlement Class Members shares common questions of law and fact, 10 including, inter alia, whether membership dues were improperly increased in violation of their 11 Membership Agreements. See id.<sup>2</sup>

12 C. Rule 23(a)(3) and (b)(3): Plaintiffs’ Claims are Typical of the Settlement Class
13 Members’ Claims and Predominate Over Individual Issues

14 Plaintiffs must also establish that the claims promulgated are “typical of the claims or defenses 15 of the class.” FED. R. CIV. P. 23(a)(3). “The purpose of the typicality requirement is to ensure that 16 the interest of the named representative aligns with the interests of the class.” Hanon, 976 F.2d at 508 17 (citation omitted). A plaintiff’s claim is typical “if it arises from the same event or course of conduct 18 that gives rise to claims of other class members and the claims are based on the same legal theory.”
19 Perez-Olano v. Gonzalez, 248 F.R.D. 248, 257-58 (C.D. Cal. 2008). Claims need not be “substantially 20 identical,” but only “reasonably co-extensive with those of absent class members.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d 21 at 1020.

22 Similarly, “[t]he Rule 23(b)(3) predominance inquiry tests whether proposed classes are 23 sufficiently cohesive to warrant adjudication by representation.” Amchem Prod., Inc. v. Windsor, 521 24 U.S. 591, 623 (1997). Courts often examine “commonality under Rule 23(a) together with 25 predominance under Rule 23(b)(3).” Abante Rooter & Plumbing, Inc. v. Alarm.com Inc., No. 15-CV-26 6314-YGR, 2017 WL 1806583, at *6 (N.D. Cal. May 5, 2017), amended sub nom., 2018 WL 558844 27 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 25, 2018).

28 <sup>2</sup> Of course, MEF challenges Plaintiffs’ assertion that any class should be certified for litigation purposes.

1 The typicality requirement is satisfied because the named Plaintiffs and the absent Settlement
 2 Class Members suffered the same injury, resulting from the same alleged breach of the Membership
 3 Agreements: MEF and/or the ME Locations improperly increased the Settlement Class Members'
 4 monthly member fees in breach of their Membership Agreements. Plaintiffs are aware of no individual 5 claim or defense which they do not share with at least a portion of the Settlement Class. Thus, 6 Plaintiffs' claims sufficiently coincide with those of the other Settlement Class Members.

7 D. Rule 23(a)(4): Plaintiffs and Class Counsel Have Fairly and Adequately
 8 Protected the Interests of the Settlement Class

9 Rule 23(a)(4)'s adequacy requirement is met where, as here, "the representative parties will 10 fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class." FED. R. CIV. P. 23(a)(4). Adequacy entails a 11 two-prong inquiry: "(1) do the named plaintiffs and their counsel have any conflicts of interest with 12 other class members and (2) will the named plaintiffs and their counsel prosecute the action vigorously 13 on behalf of the class?" Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1020.

14 The named Plaintiffs have each litigated their respective case for over three years, have 15 assumed the responsibilities as class representatives, and has vigilantly protected and advanced the 16 interests and rights of the similarly situated Members of the Settlement Class. See Declaration of 17 Camille Berlese ("Berlese Decl."), ECF No. 119-11; Declaration of Baerbel McKinney-Drobnis 18 ("McKinney Decl."), ECF No. 119-10; Declaration of Joseph B. Piccola ("Piccola Decl."), ECF No.
 19 119-12. Additionally, Plaintiffs have no disabling conflicts. Each of the Plaintiffs experienced the 20 same injury, i.e. increased monthly membership fees, caused by the same alleged breach of contract.
 21 While Plaintiffs and Settlement Class Members may have differing quantum of damages (e.g., amount 22 of increased membership fees paid), this is of no consequence. See Wolin v. Jaguar Land Rover N.
 23 Am., LLC, 617 F.3d 1168, 1175 (9th Cir. 2010) (citing Lymburner v. U.S. Fin. Funds, Inc., 263 F.R.D.
 24 534, 540 (N.D.Cal.2010) (finding named plaintiff typical of class despite availability of plaintiff-25 specific remedy and finding "no authority for the argument that typicality is defeated because the 26 remedies may be different for class members or that the availability of rescission as a remedy will 27 monopolize this case")). Named Plaintiffs have the same interest as Settlement Class Members in 28 seeking relief for any increased membership fees paid. This is sufficient. Parkinson v. Hyundai Motor

1 Am., 258 F.R.D. 580, 594–95 (C.D. Cal. 2008) (“[P]laintiffs have shown that their interests are 2 sufficiently aligned with those of the proposed class to satisfy the adequacy requirement of Rule 3 23(a).”)

4 Plaintiffs have chosen competent and experienced counsel to pursue their claims. Krinsk Decl.
5 I, at ¶¶ 72-77, Ex. F. Class Counsel has shown its alacrity to litigate the Settlement Class’s claims, 6 including dispositive motion practice, appellate briefing, discovery, and months of extensive, and 7 often antagonistic, settlement negotiations. Id. The Settlement Class is adequately represented.

8 E. Rule 23(b)(3): Class Treatment is Superior to Other Available Methods for the 9 Resolution of this Case

10 Finally, Rule 23(b)(3) requires that class litigation is a superior method for adjudicating this 11 dispute. Factors considered include: class members’ interest in individually controlling litigation; the 12 extent and nature of litigation concerning the controversy already begun by or against class members; 13 the desirability or undesirability of concentrating the litigation of the claims in this particular forum; 14 and the likely difficulties in managing the class action. FED. R. CIV. P. 23(b)(3)(A)–(D) The 15 superiority requirement tests whether “classwide litigation of common issues will reduce litigation 16 costs and promote greater efficiency.” Valentino v. Carter–Wallace, Inc., 97 F.3d 1227, 1234 (9th Cir.
17 1996).<sup>3</sup>

18 This case involves approximately 1.7 million Settlement Class Members. The individual 19 amounts of recovery at issue would otherwise be too small to warrant individual litigation. Bee, 20 Denning, Inc. v. Capital All. Grp., 310 F.R.D. 614, 630 (S.D. Cal. 2015) (Consumer actions “which 21 provides for a relatively small recovery for individual violations but is designed to deter conduct 22 directed against a large number of individuals, can be effectively enforced only if consumers have 23 available a mechanism that makes it economically feasible to bring their claims.”); Local Joint Exec.
24 Board of Culinary/Bartender Trust Fund v. Las Vegas Sands, Inc., 244 F.3d 1152, 1163 (9th Cir.
25 2001) (“Counsel for the would-be class estimated that, under the most optimistic scenario, each class 26 member would recover about $1,330. If plaintiffs cannot proceed as a class, some –perhaps most –

27 <sup>3</sup> There are no serious manageability difficulties presented by conditionally certifying the 28 Settlement Class for settlement purposes because there will be no trial. See Amchem Prods. v. Windsor, 521 U.S. 591, 620 (1997) (“Confronted with a request for settlement-only class certification, a district court need not inquire whether the case, if tried, would present intractable management problems.”)

1 will be unable to proceed as individuals because of the disparity between their litigation costs and 2 what they hope to recover.”). Yet, even if the individual Class Members were inclined to seek relief, 3 such repetitive litigation would not benefit the parties or the Court. McCrary v. Elations Co., LLC, 4 No. EDCV 13-00242, 2014 WL 1779243, at *16 (C.D. Cal. Jan. 13, 2014) (“It is more efficient to 5 resolve the common questions . . . in a [single] proceeding rather than to have individual courts 6 separately hear these cases”). Therefore, Settlement of the instant case as a class action is superior to 7 any alternative.

8 IV. THE CLASS SETTLEMENT IS FAIR, REASONABLE, AND ADEQUATE

9 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(e) requires judicial approval of any settlement that would 10 bind a class. Although the Ninth Circuit has emphasized that a strong judicial policy favors settlement 11 of class actions, Class Plaintiffs v. City of Seattle, 955 F.2d 1268, 1276 (9th Cir. 1992), Rule 23(e) 12 provides that “[a] class action shall not be dismissed or compromised without the approval of the 13 court” and provides several factors to be considered. FED. R. CIV. PRO. § 23(e). The Ninth Circuit has 14 also instructed district courts to consider and balance multiple factors when assessing the fairness of 15 the class settlement including:

16 (1) the strength of the plaintiff’s case; (2) the risk, expense, complexity, and likely 17 duration of further litigation; (3) the risk of maintaining class action status 18 throughout the trial; (4) the amount offered in settlement; (5) the extent of 19 discovery completed and the stage of the proceedings; (6) the experience and views 20 of counsel; (7) the presence of a governmental participant; and (8) the reaction of 21 the class members of the proposed settlement.

2 This Court previously reviewed the Settlement terms and held that the Settlement was fair, 3 reasonable, and adequate. Now, with additional information regarding the estimated redemption rate 4 and the value of the Injunctive Relief, it is clear that the weight of evidence overwhelmingly supports 5 approval of this Settlement. See Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1026 (“It is the settlement taken as a whole, 6 rather than the individual component parts, that must be examined for overall fairness.”) Accordingly, 7 the Settlement warrants final approval.

8 A. The Settlement Provides Real and Immediate Relief for the Settlement Class’s
9 Claims

10 All settlements are necessarily an “offspring of compromise.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1027.
11 Therefore, “the court must not hold [class] counsel to an impossible standard” requiring that their 12 settlement negotiations obtain the best conceivable outcome, regardless of the reality of the present 13 circumstances. See In re Ikon Office Solutions, Inc., Sec. Litig., 194 F.R.D. 166, 179 (E.D. Pa. 2000).
14 The correct and proper measurement of the Settlement is whether it, in fact, confers real and substantial 15 benefits on the Settlement Class Members. See, e.g., In re Prudential Ins. Co. of America Sales 16 Practices Litig., 962 F.Supp. 450, 557 (D.N.J. 1997) (“The Court rejects also the argument that if the 17 cost of [the non-monetary] Relief to Prudential is low, then [the non-monetary] Relief is worthless to 18 policyholders. The cost of the relief to Prudential is not the measure of class member benefit. The 19 value of the relief to the Class, which may be substantial, is what matters.”); In re Clark Oil & Refining 20 Corp. Antitrust Litig., 422 F.Supp. 503, 511 (E.D. Wis. 1976) (“It is, however, the nonmonetary 21 features of the settlement agreement which plaintiffs' counsel urge to be the most valuable benefits 22 included in the agreement... the Court is convinced that they confer real and substantial benefits upon 23 members of the class.”)

24 The Settlement in this case provides excellent relief for Settlement Class Members in the form 25 of substantial Vouchers for goods and services that offset the amount of increased membership fees 26 previously paid. Settlement Agreement, § IV. The Vouchers to be issued can be redeemed at any of 27 the over 1,200 nationwide ME Location for retail products, massage sessions, enhancements, and/or 28 facial sessions but is not redeemable for cash, payment of monthly membership fees, or to pay tips.

1 Id. The Vouchers to be issued also are fully transferrable, can be used in multiple transactions, and 2 may be aggregated. Id. Courts have recognized that such settlement benefits are valuable and do not 3 render a settlement unfair or unreasonable. See, e.g., Knapp v. Art.com, Inc., 283 F. Supp. 3d 823, 4 833 (N.D. Cal. 2017) (granting final approval of settlement providing $10 vouchers where “class 5 members who choose to use their voucher have the opportunity to realize a $10 value”); In re Mexico
 6 Money Transfer Litig., 267 F.3d 743, 748 (7th Cir. 2001) (approving settlement where class members 7 could redeem voucher for services).

8 The Settlement benefits are of significant value. Based on the Claims Administrator’s revised 9 calculations, Settlement Class Members, who timely submitted a Voucher Request, will receive 10 between $39.78 and $198.90 dollars in Vouchers:

Total Fee Increases Paid by Class Member	Voucher Face Value Requested	# of Claim Forms/Voucher Requests	Pro Rata Voucher Value	Claim Form/Voucher Request Total Value
$75.00 or Less	$10 Voucher	49,488	$39.78	$1,968,791.76
$75.01 to $125.00	$20 Voucher	8,231	$79.56	$654,778.80
$125.01 to $175.00	$30 Voucher	10,428	$119.34	$1,244,596.86
$175.01 to $225.00	$40 Voucher	8,503	$159.12	$1,352,997.36
$225.01 or More	$50 Voucher	29,043	$198.90	$5,777,647.20
	TOTAL	105,693		$10,998,811.98

17 Krinsk Decl.. II, at ¶ 88. The amount of the Vouchers to be issued is more than triple the minimum 18 Voucher amount contemplated under the Settlement Agreement. Ultimately, the mean recovery for 19 Settlement Class Members will be a $79.56 Voucher and the average weighted recover would be 20 $104.05. Id., at ¶¶ 88, 106.

21 Accordingly, most Settlement Class Members, who timely submitted a Voucher Request, will 22 receive between 53 and 70 percent of their individual loss.<sup>5</sup> Considering that this Settlement, like 23

24
 25 <sup>5</sup> Those Settlement Class Members who paid up to $75.00 in increased membership fees will 26 receive a $39.78 Voucher (or, at least, 53 percent of their alleged maximum damages), those who paid 27 between $75.01 to $125.00 in increased membership fees will receive a $79.56 Voucher (or 28 approximately 63 percent of their maximum alleged damages), those who paid between $125.01 to $175.00 in increased membership fees will receive a $119.34 Voucher (or approximately 68 percent of their maximum alleged damages), and those who paid between $175.01 to $225.00 in increased membership fees will receive a $159.12 Voucher (or, at least, 70 percent of their maximum alleged damages). Krinsk Decl. II, at ¶ 88.

1 every settlements, is a creature of compromise, this is an excellent result. In re Toys R Us-Delaware,
 2 Inc.--Fair & Accurate Credit Transactions Act (FACTA) Litig., 295 F.R.D. 438, 454 (C.D. Cal. 2014)
 3 (finding a $5 or $30 [voucher] that represents 5% to 30% of the recovery that might have been obtained 4 was fair and adequate in a consumer class action).<sup>6</sup>

5 Viewed in the aggregate, the Settlement similarly warrants approval. Plaintiffs estimate that 6 the aggregate potential recovery, at trial, could theoretically be in excess of $130 million dollars.
 7 Krinsk Decl. I, ¶ 49 (For each month the case continues, additional damages accrue.). This value of 8 the Settlement Vouchers is approximately 9 percent of this total potential liability and is a reasonable 9 amount for a consumer class action. See City of Omaha Police & Fire Ret. Sys. v. LHC Grp., No.
 10 6:12–1609, 2015 WL 965696, at *7-8 (W.D. La. Mar. 3, 2015).

11 The Vouchers can be used to purchase a wide number of items and services. As noted in 12 Plaintiffs’ Motion for Attorneys’ Fees, Costs, and Incentive Award, and based on discovery, the ME 13 Locations offer 351 spa-related retail products (251 when different variations of the similar product 14 are omitted). Plaintiffs’ Motion for Attorneys’ Fees, Cost, and Incentive Award, ECF No. 122, at p.
 15 9. Based on information provided at final approval, approximately 58% of the products sold at the 16 ME Locations for less the $36.10. Krinsk Decl. II, at ¶ 90. Additionally, approximately 79% of the 17 products sold at the ME Locations are under $72.38; approximately 91% of the products sold are under 18 $108.48; approximately 95% of the products are under $144.58; and approximately 97% of the 19 products are under $180.68. Id.

20 This is also true of services offered at the ME Locations. Based on the most 2019 pricing, the 21 most popular services range between $20 and $46 for a thirty-minute session,<sup>7</sup> $40 and $80 for a sixty-

24 <sup>6</sup> The methodology used to distribute the Vouchers is also fair, objective, and impartial. The only 25 variation between the Settlement Class Members’ recovery is based on the amount of overpayment 26 during the Class Period. Given that damages accrued by Settlement Class Member would be logically 27 proportional to the amount paid, the Vouchers formula forwarded in the Settlement is reasonable and 28 equitable. Petruzzi’s, Inc. v. Darling–Delaware Co., Inc., 880 F.Supp. 292, 300–01 (M.D. Pa. 1995) (“disparate treatment of class members may be justified by a demonstration that the favored class members have different claims or greater damages”); FED. R. CIV. PRO. § 23(e)(2)(C)(ii), (e)(2)(D).
 Additionally, as noted below, any attorneys’ fees resulting from the Voucher relief will only be paid after the Class redeems the Vouchers. FED. R. CIV. PRO. § 23(e)(2)(C)(iii).

1 minute session,<sup>8</sup> and $60 and $120 dollars for a ninety-minute session.<sup>9</sup> Declaration of Jeffrey Krinsk
2 in support of Plaintiffs’ Motion for Attorneys’ Fees, Cost, and Incentive Award (“Krinsk Decl. III”)
3 [ECF No. 119-2], ¶ 70 (pricing varies based on geographic region). Individuals may, additionally, 4 purchase enhancements or additional services that supplement a massage or facial session for between 5 $10 and $30, such as Enhanced Therapies, including Aroma Therapy, CyMe Boosts, Exfoliating Lip
6 Treatment, Exfoliating Foot Treatment, Exfoliating Hand Treatment, Anti-Aging Eye Treatment, 10-7 min Percussion Therapy, or Enhanced Muscle Therapy. Id. The majority of the Settlement Class thus 8 will be able to purchase services from the ME Locations without any additional outlay of money. And 9 while the prices have increased since 2019, such price increases will be offset, by the ten percent 10 increase to the Settlement Benefits provided in the Amendment (increased from $10 million to $11
11 million). See Sacks Decl., at ¶ 71 (finding that the median price increase for products between June 12 2019 through December 2021 was 7.7 percent).

13       Importantly, this is not a case where a plaintiff argues that the defendant’s products are 14 defective, or that its service is subpar. See generally, FAC. Plaintiffs, rather, complain that they 15 overpaid for services actually wanted. Cf. Hendricks v. FERENCE, 754 F. App’x 510, 512 (9th Cir. 2018) 16 (unpublished) (noting vouchers for canned tuna to replace the allegedly under-filled product provided 17 consumer with the exact product they wished to purchase). Additionally, the Voucher were requested 18 by the Class Members, and not provided without regard for actual demand. Thus, Plaintiffs believe 19 that the Vouchers will be used by the Class. As noted in Dr. Dippon’s Declaration, the estimated the 20 redemption rate of the Vouchers will likely be similar to or greater than the historical redemption rate 21 for regular MEF gift cards, or 48 percent. Sacks Decl., at Ex. A ¶¶ 54, 67-68 (noting that the 22 redemption rate for the Voucher may be even higher than the general gift card redemption rate because 23 the recipients completed a voucher request to receive this benefit and voucher recipients are current 24 or former Massage Envy Members, demonstrating preference for services and products offered at the 25 Massage Envy franchise locations).<sup>10</sup> This is not an unreasonable assumption, as the Vouchers have 26

27 <sup>8</sup> A sixty-minute Massage, Healthy Skin Facial, or Total Body Stretch.

28 <sup>9</sup> A ninety-minute Massage or Healthy Skin Facial.

<sup>10</sup> Dr. Dippon took into account the sixteen-month expiration period for the Vouchers. Sacks Decl., Ex. A at ¶¶ 55-58.

1 same characteristics of a gift card: they can be used for any services or products MEF offers (excluding 2 tip), can be used until depleted, and are freely transferable. When applied to the $11 million in 3 provided Vouchers, this historic gift card redemption rate would suggest that the value of redeemed 4 settlement Vouchers will be $5.3 million. Id., at ¶ 67. Again, this estimate is based on the last three 5 years of data for redemption rates on actual MEF gift cards. Id., at ¶¶ 67-68. Accordingly, this value 6 ascribed to the Voucher based on real world data from a realistic analog. See McKinney-Drobnis v.
7 Oreshack, 16 F.4th 594, 608, 611 (9th Cir. 2021) (noting that the Court should examine the actual 8 redemption rate for the non-cash relief); Sacks Decl., Ex. A at ¶ 54.

9 The Settlement further ensures that Class Members, and other consumers, will have an 10 opportunity to cancel their membership before any future fee increases become effective. This 11 Injunctive Relief will prevent future “surprise” increases and give the Settlement Class (and other 12 consumers) the opportunity to make an informed decision regarding membership. But it also has a 13 real economic benefit. The parties also engaged Christian M. Dippon, Ph.D. to examine the monetary 14 value arising from this injunctive relief. Dr. Dippon found that the value of the Injunctive Relief 15 Measures to Class Members equals $2,349,887 between June 2019 and December 2021 and forecasts 16 that the Class Members will receive additional value for 2022 through 2024 equal to $3,736,016.
17 Sacks Decl., Ex. A at ¶ 10. Therefore, the total value of the Injunctive Relief Measures (June 2019
18 through 2024) to Class Members is $6,085,903. Id.; 28 U.S.C. § 1712(c) (noting that in mixed coupon
19 and injunctive relief settlements, the Court must value both the coupon and injunctive relief portions 20 of the settlement separately).

21 Again, this evaluation is not aspirational, it is based on MEF’s actual business records. The 22 Injunctive Relief became effective on the date of preliminary approval (June 7, 2019).<sup>11</sup> Settlement
23 Agreement, at ¶ 14; Order Granting Preliminary Approval [ECF No. 114]. Accordingly, the parties 24 have over two years of real-world data to examine the effect of the Injunctive Relief on actual 25 consumers. Using these records, Dr. Dippon was able to examine the actual monetary value provided

26
27 <sup>11</sup> The reason that the Injunctive Relief become effective on the date of preliminary approval is 28 that the Settlement Class is temporally defined as ending on the date of preliminary approval.
Settlement Agreement, at I(A)(G). Accordingly, to avoid additional damages and lawsuits, the Injunctive Relief was scheduled start as soon as the Class Period ended.

1 from June 2019 to December 2021. Sacks Decl., Ex. A at ¶ 5, 12-24, 32-53. This information was 2 then used to forecast the value that will be provided from Injunctive Relief from January 2022 to the 3 end of 2024. Id.

4 In total, this Settlement provides a maximum estimated benefit of $17,085,903 ($11 million in 5 Vouchers and $6,085,903 in injunctive relief) in monetary value to the Settlement Class. But even if 6 the parties were to take into account the estimated redemption rate, the Settlement would still provide 7 the Settlement Class $11,385,903 ($5.3 million in Vouchers and $6,085,903 in Injunctive Relief) in 8 direct monetary benefits. This does not account for any attorneys' fees and costs, including 9 $1,008,654.97 in settlement administration costs, paid separately by MEF. Krinsk Decl. II, at ¶ 86.
10 Even under the rigorous analysis called for by the Ninth Circuit, such relief is reasonable. McKinney- 11 Drobnis, 16 F.4th at 606; City of Omaha Police & Fire Ret. Sys., 2015 WL 965696, at *7-8 (finding 12 that a "7.4%–10.3% [recovery] of estimated provable damages" amounts to "a high degree of success" 13 because "[t]he typical recovery in most class actions generally is three-to-six cents on the dollar.").

14 B. The Settlement is Fair when Measured Against the Risk of Further Litigation

15 When evaluating the Settlement benefits, the Settlement should be weighed against the 16 uncertainty of protracted litigation. "It can be difficult to ascertain with precision the likelihood of 17 success at trial. The Court cannot and need not determine the merits of the contested facts and legal 18 issues at this stage, [Citation], and to the extent courts assess this factor, it is to 'determine whether 19 the decision to settle is a good value for a relatively weak case or a sell-out of an extraordinary strong 20 case.'" Misra v. Decision One Mortg. Co., No. SACV070994, 2009 WL 4581276, at *7 (C.D. Cal.
21 Apr. 13, 2009).

22 This litigation had reached a critical juncture before the Settlement Agreement was executed.
23 At the time of Settlement, Plaintiffs were simultaneously preparing to oppose MEF's anticipated
24 Motion for Summary Judgment and intended to file a cross motion for summary adjudication. Krinsk 25 Decl. I, at ¶ 54; Joint Stipulation RE: Schedule for Briefing on Plaintiffs' Motion for Class 26 Certification, ECF No. 70. While Plaintiffs were, and remain, confident of their case's merits, they 27 recognize that there is always significant uncertainty and risk attendant to further litigation. The 28 Membership Agreements contain sections that strongly suggest that membership fees would not

1 change:

2 Your Membership dues of $39 (not including any additional applicable taxes) will 3 be due on July 14th and then due on or after the same day of each month hereafter 4 until your membership expires or is terminated in accordance with the agreement.

4 [Berlese's Initials] (Initial) Your membership is auto-renewable. Following the 5 initial term, your membership will automatically continue on a month-to-month 6 basis at $39 per month until your membership is cancelled.

6 Krinsk Decl. I, at ¶ 6, Ex. A [emphasis added]. But, MEF relied on the agreement provision that 7 indicates membership pricing could be changed with sufficient notice:

8 You have the right to receive a notice of change in the event that any changes to 9 the terms and conditions of your membership are implemented that will vary the 10 amount to be periodically billed to your account as specified in the Membership 11 Description and Payment Schedule section of this agreement. We will send you a 12 notice of change at the mailing address you have provided at the top of this 13 Agreement at least ten days prior to the effective date of such change. Except as 14 expressly provided herein, we may modify our services or the terms and conditions 15 of this Agreement at any time without notice and such modifications shall be 16 deemed effective immediately upon making such changes.

13 Id., at ¶ 9, Ex. A [emphasis added]. Accordingly, each party cannot dispute that there is contractual 14 language supporting their respective position.<sup>12</sup>

15 These anticipated dispositive motions would be particularly important because the Court could 16 thereby decide the merits of the Parties' contract dispute through summary adjudication. See City of 17 Hope Nat'l Med. Ctr. v. Genentech, Inc., 43 Cal. 4th 375, 395 (2008) ("Interpretation of a written 18 instrument becomes solely a judicial function only when it is based on the words of the instrument 19 alone, when there is no conflict in the extrinsic evidence, or when a determination was made based on 20 incompetent evidence."). Yet, the Membership Agreement can only support a single interpretation.
21 Stated differently, in the absence of the Settlement, the Court will likely have to find that either 22 Plaintiffs' interpretation is correct and the Settlement Class is entitled to over a hundred million dollars 23 in damages (whether from MEF or otherwise) or MEF was correct and the Settlement Class is entitled 24 to nothing.<sup>13</sup> There exists little middle ground, presenting significant risk for Plaintiffs and the 25 <sup>12</sup> MEF also asserts that it is not a contracting party to the Membership Agreements. Indeed, some 26 of the Membership Agreements state that it is the "home clinic" (or the Clinic at which a member 27 signed the Membership Agreement), not MEF, that is the contracting party. Krinsk Decl. I, at ¶ 12.

28 This issue also would need to be adjudicated, adding additional risk to securing favorable rulings on the merits of the case and maintaining a class.

<sup>13</sup> Class Counsel was also concerned that MEF would not be able to absorb a judgment. See Krinsk

1 Settlement Class. In re Nvidia Derivs. Litig., No. C-06-06110, 2008 WL 5382544, at *3 (N.D. Cal.
 2 Dec. 22, 2008) (“The Settlement eliminates these and other risks of continued litigation, including the 3 very real risk of no recovery after several years of litigation.”).<sup>14</sup>

4 Plaintiffs had also prepared to litigate class certification. Krinsk Decl. I., at ¶ 39. “The 5 prospects for obtaining certification have a great impact on the range of recovery one can expect to 6 reap from the action.” In re Ikon Office Sols., Inc., 194 F.R.D. at 181 (“The value of a class action 7 depends largely on the certification of the class because, not only does the aggregation of the claims 8 enlarge the value of the suit, but often the combination of the individual cases also pools litigation 9 resources and may facilitate proof on the merits.”) MEF strongly opposed class-wide certification, 10 arguing that it did not dictate fee increases to the ME Locations, such that the increases in membership 11 fees were not uniform and were not made at the same time. MEF also asserted that material terms of 12 the Membership Agreements changed over the Class Period, preventing uniform interpretation on a 13 class-wide basis. Class certification thus was thus not a foregone conclusion. And even if a class was 14 certified, “[a] district court may decertify a class at any time.” Rodriguez v. W. Publ’g Corp., 563 15 F.3d 948, 966 (9th Cir. 2009); see also FED. R. CIV. P. 23(c)(1)(C). Plaintiffs would have to maintain 16 the class through trial, an obligation which has proven difficult in similar consumer cases. See, e.g., 17 Berger v. Home Depot USA, Inc., 741 F.3d 1061, 1069 (9th Cir. 2014) (“Each of the five contracts 18 used by Home Depot requires an independent legal analysis to determine whether the language and 19 design of that contract did or did not suffice to alert customers that the damage waiver was an optional 20 purchase...”).

21 Consumer class litigation is inherently complex, expensive, and protracted. Krinsk Decl. II, at 22 Decl. I, ¶ 81; In re Toys R Us, 295 F.R.D. at 452 (C.D. Cal. 2014) (“For its part, Toys risked the 23 possibility of ‘catastrophic damages’ ... The fact that both sides faced this type of all-or-nothing 24 prospect weighs in favor of approval.”); County of Suffolk v. Long Island Lighting Co., 907 F.2d 1295, 1323–1324 (2d Cir. 1990) (The Court should consider the ability of the defendant to withstand a greater judgment when approving a class settlement).

25 <sup>14</sup> It is also important to note that evidence suggests that the Settlement Class Members did not pay 26 MEF the monthly membership fees directly. Krinsk Decl. I, at ¶ 81. MEF is a franchisor. The 27 Settlement Class Members paid membership fees to their “Home Clinic” (one of the more than 1,200 28 ME Locations). Id. Accordingly, it has always been MEF’s position that its more than 1,200 ME
 Locations are responsible for any damages suffered by the Settlement Class. See Hahn v. Massage Envy Franchising, LLC, No. 12CV153 DMS BGS, 2014 WL 5099373, at *12 (S.D. Cal. Apr. 15, 2014). If Plaintiffs were required to join each of these ME Locations to seek full recovery, it would considerably complicate this case. See Answer, ECF No. 69 (Affirmative Defense No. 10).

1 ¶ 48. In Hahn, plaintiffs submitted over 2,500 pages of briefing and evidence in support of their 2 motions for class certification and summary judgment. Id. Plaintiffs believe a similar effort would be 3 required here. Additionally, before traditional pretrial motions, Plaintiffs anticipated that the Parties
 4 would engage in extensive expert testimony, particularly with regards to damages and MEF's
 5 database. Id., at ¶ 48. Such experts would likely cost the Parties hundreds of thousands of dollars 6 even before trial. When combined with traditionally asserted pretrial motions and discovery, it would 7 likely be another year or two before the Parties reached a position where they could try this case. And 8 nothing is guaranteed to Plaintiffs at trial.

9 But even were Plaintiffs were to succeed at trial on the merits, a favorable judgment would not 10 conclude the case. Krinsk Decl. II, at ¶ 104. MEF has already indicated that it would seek appellate 11 review of any favorable judgment, a threat that Class Counsel takes seriously (MEF has already filed 12 a writ of mandamus in this case). Id. Any appeal could take two years or more to resolve. Id.
 13 “Avoiding such a trial and the subsequent appeals in this complex case strongly militates in favor of 14 settlement rather than further protracted and uncertain litigation.” Nat’l Rural Telecomms. Coop v.
 15 DirecTV, 221 F.R.D. at 527. This factor strongly favors final approval of the Settlement. See Nobles
 16 v. MBNA Corp., No. C 06-3723 CRB, 2009 WL 1854965, at *2 (N.D. Cal. June 29, 2009) (“The risks 17 and certainty of recovery in continued litigation are factors for the Court to balance in determining 18 whether the Settlement is fair.”) (citing In re Mego Fin. Corp. Sec. Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 458 (9th Cir.
 19 2000)); Kim v. Space Pencil, Inc., No. C 11-03796 LB, 2012 WL 5948951, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 28, 20 2012) (“The substantial and immediate relief provided to the Class under the Settlement weighs 21 heavily in favor of its approval compared to the inherent risk of continued litigation, trial, and appeal, 22 as well as the financial wherewithal of the defendant.”).

23 Given the risk and delay associate with litigating this case to trial, the benefits provided under 24 the Settlement are fair and reasonable.

25 C. Plaintiffs Had Vigorously Litigated and Negotiated their Claims

26 “A presumption of correctness is said to attach to a class settlement reached in arm’s-length 27 negotiations between experienced capable counsel after meaningful discovery.” In re Heritage Bond 28 Litig., No. 02-ML-1475 DT, 2005 WL 1594403, at *9 (C.D. Cal. June 10, 2005). Moreover, if the

1 settlement terms are fair, courts generally assume the negotiations were proper. See In re GM Pick-
2 up Truck Fuel Tank Prods. Liab. Litig., 55 F.3d 768, 785-86 (3d Cir. 1995).

3 The Settlement was negotiated only after the Parties conducted significant amounts of 4 discovery. Plaintiffs propounded fifty-five document requests, twenty-five interrogatories, and two 5 document subpoenas. Krinsk Decl. II., ¶¶ 43-48. Class Counsel had reviewed over 7,000 pages of 6 documents and were preparing for the depositions of key MEF corporate officers. Id., ¶ 48. Plaintiffs 7 had been deposed and responded to MEF's written discovery requests. Id., ¶ 47. The information 8 gleaned in this discovery was buttressed by Class Counsel's experience with MEF in Hahn. Id., ¶ 43.

9 Much ink was consumed litigating the Parties' positions by the time of settlement. In both 10 Plaintiffs' Motion to Strike and Defendant's Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings, the Parties 11 contested each other's respective claims and defenses. ECF Nos. 24, 26. MEF petitioned the Ninth 12 Circuit for a Writ of Mandamus to vacate the Court's Orders on the Motions for Judgment on the 13 Pleadings, ECF No. 49. Massage Envy Franchising, LLC v. United States District Court, No. 17-14 71722, ECF No. 1 (9th Cir.). Additionally, the Parties were preparing to file motions for summary 15 judgment at the time of the final settlement discussions. Krinsk Decl. I, ¶ 39. Stipulation Re: Schedule 16 for Briefing on Motion for Class Certification, ECF No. 70, at pp. 1-2. The Parties negotiations were 17 well informed of the strength and weakness of the respective positions.

18 The Parties' settlement discussions were lengthy and contentious. The Parties' settlement 19 discussions lasted well over one year and settlement was only reached during a second mediation 20 session with Mr. David Rotman, a well-respected mediator. Krinsk Decl. I, ¶¶ 47-55; G. F. v. Contra 21 Costa Cty., No. 13-CV-03667, 2015 WL 4606078, at *13 (N.D. Cal. July 30, 2015) (The "assistance 22 of an experienced mediator in the settlement process confirms that the settlement is non-collusive." 23 (alteration and citation omitted)). Additionally, the parties returned to Mr. Rotman after the mediation 24 to seek additional guidance. Krinsk Decl. II, ¶ 78. The inclusion of this respected and natural 25 mediator, who is willing to testify to the vigorous and continuous nature of the negotiation, dispels 26 any accusation of collusion. See generally Declaration of David A. Rotman, concurrently filed 27 herewith.

D. The Reaction of the Class Members to the Settlement has been Overwhelmingly Positive

“The reaction of class members to the proposed settlement, or perhaps more accurately the absence of a negative reaction,” is an essential litmus test in approving any class action settlement. Chun-Hoon v. McKee Foods Corp., 716 F. Supp. 2d 848, 852 (N.D. Cal. 2010). When a settlement enjoys overwhelming support from the class, it is reasonable to assume the class members find the terms fair, adequate, and reasonable. Nat’l Rural Telecommunications Coop., 221 F.R.D. at 529 (“It is established that the absence of a large number of objections to a proposed class action settlement raises a strong presumption that the terms of a proposed class settlement action are favorable to the class members”).

In this case, the response of the Class proved overwhelmingly positive. A total of 105,691 Class Members (or approximately 6.2% of the Class) submitted timely and valid Voucher Requests. Declaration of Cameron R. Azari (“Azari Decl. I”), ECF No. 133, ¶ 14. This number exceeded the participation rates projected by Plaintiffs in the Preliminary Approval Motion, which was based on the Hahn settlement. See Motion for Preliminary Approval of Class Action Settlement, ECF No. 103, at p. 10 (estimating a 4.65% participation rate based on the Hahn Settlement). Further, the Class’ participation proved well within the norms seen in other consumer class actions. See Ferrington v. McAfee, Inc., No. 10–CV–01455, 2012 WL 1156399, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 6, 2012) (“the prevailing rule of thumb with respect to consumer class actions is 3–5 percent”); see also Touhey v. United States, No. EDCV 08–01418, 2011 WL 3179036, at *7–8 (C.D. Cal. July 25, 2011) (finding a 2% response rate acceptable); In re Cardizem Antitrust Litig., 218 F.R.D. 508, 526 (E.D. Mich. 2003) (finding favorable class reactions in a 6.9% response rate).<sup>15</sup>

Further, the small number of objections and opt-outs supports approval of the Settlement. Only seven class members objected to the Settlement. Azari Decl. I, ¶ 21. This represents a fraction of a percent of (0.0004%) of the Class Settlement. There also were only 351 Class Members who opted-out of the Settlement – or 0.02% of the Class Settlement. Id. This extremely small number of objectors and opt outs is viewed as highly indicative of an equitable class settlement. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Bolger, <sup>15</sup> The relatively high class participation also supports that the Voucher Request process was simple and straight forward. Class Members could simply input their information online on the Settlement Website, or alternatively, request and submit a paper Voucher Request.

1 2 F.3d 1304, 1313-14 (3d Cir. 1993) (“Less than 30 of approximately 1.1 million shareholders
2 objected. This is an infinitesimal number.”); Stoetzner v. U.S. Steel Corp., 897 F.2d 115, 118–19 (3d 3 Cir. 1990) (“only” 29 objections in 281 member class “strongly favors settlement”).

4 E. The Lack of Objections by Governmental Agencies Also Supports Final 5 Approval

6 In addition to the lack of significant opposition from the Class, state and federal agencies 7 charged with enforcing various consumer protection laws have not challenged the Settlement despite 8 that notice was sent to all “appropriate” federal and state offices pursuant to the Class Action Fairness
9 Act of 2005 (“CAFA”). 28 U.S.C. § 1715. Azari Decl. II, ¶ 11. That no federal or state agency 10 objected to the Settlement or brought a parallel regulatory action further supports approval of the 11 Settlement. See In re Uponor, Inc., F1807 Plumbing Fittings Products Liab. Litig., 2012 WL 2512750, 12 at *10 (D. Minn. June 29, 2012) aff’d, 716 F.3d 1057 (8th Cir. 2013) (noting the lack of objections to 13 a national settlement by any state Attorneys General, combined with minimal objections from class, 14 supported approval).<sup>16</sup>

15 V. THE REQUESTED ATTORNEYS’ FEES, COSTS, AND INCENTIVE AWARDS 16 ARE REASONABLE

17 A. Class Counsel’s Fees are not a Product of Collusion

18 In contemplating the approval of a proposed settlement, “[t]he recommendations of plaintiffs’ 19 counsel should be given a presumption of reasonableness.” Knight v. Red Door Salons Inc., No. 08-20 01520, 2009 WL 248367, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 2, 2009) (citing Boyd v. Bechtel Corp., 485 F.Supp.
21 610, 622 (N.D. Cal. 1979)); see also Nat’l Rural Telecomms. Coop., 221 F.R.D. at 528. “Parties 22 represented by competent counsel are better positioned than courts to produce a settlement that fairly 23 reflects each party’s expected outcome in litigation.” In re Pac. Enterprises Sec. Litig., 47 F.3d 373, 24 378 (9th Cir. 1995). Nothing suggests that the Court should depart from this assumption.

25 Class Counsel is well-seasoned both in litigating complex class action case, as well as opposing 26 MEF and opposing counsel, having extensive knowledge of MEF’s business model. Class Counsel 27 had tested Plaintiffs’ claims via several important motions and conducted discovery. Based on this 28 <sup>16</sup> Class Counsel was contacted by the Attorneys General offices of Arizona, California and Texas to seek information regarding how the Vouchers may be used by class members. Krinsk Decl. II, ¶¶ 92-93. But, no objections have been raised after these discussions. Id.

1 experience, and information gleaned from discovery, Class Counsel negotiated a substantial recovery 2 for the Settlement Class.

3 There is no evidence of collusion of any kind by Class Counsel to undersell the Settlement
4 Class's Claims for their own benefit. Nonetheless, Plaintiffs recognizes that the Ninth Circuit found 5 that this Court "must apply the Bluetooth factors in examining pre-certification settlements 'to smoke 6 out potential collusion.'" McKinney-Drobnis, 16 F.4th at 608. "Collusion may not be evident on its 7 face, thus the Ninth Circuit has provided examples of subtle signs of collusion including: (1) when 8 counsel receive a disproportionate distribution of the settlement; (2) when the parties negotiate a clear 9 sailing arrangement providing for the payment of attorneys' fees separate and apart from class funds; 10 and (3) when the parties arrange for fees not awarded to revert to defendants rather than be added to 11 the class fund." In re LinkedIn User Privacy Litig., 309 F.R.D. 573, 589 (N.D. Cal. 2015) (internal 12 quotations omitted) (citing In re Bluetooth Headset, 654 F.3d 935, 946–47).

13 As to the first factor, Class Counsel's fees are not disproportionate distribution of the 14 Settlement. Here, Class Counsel is only requesting $2,612,500 in attorneys' fees and $65,593.05 in 15 costs, the reduced amount previously approved by the Court. As noted above, taking into account the 16 estimated redemption rate, the Settlement provides an estimated $11,385,903 ($5.3 million in 17 Vouchers and $6,085,903 in injunctive relief) in direct monetary benefits to the Class. Additionally, 18 the Settlement also provides for settlement administration costs, paid separately by MEF, estimated 19 at $1,008,654.97. Krinsk Decl. II, at ¶ 86. Accordingly, the attorneys' fees requested will only be 20 21% of the benefits provided to the Settlement Class ($2,612,500 divided by $12,394,558). This is 21 well within the range of the Ninth Circuit's benchmark for class actions. See, e.g., Torrasi v. Tucson 22 Elec. Power Co., 8 F.3d 1370, 1376 (9th Cir. 1993) (reaffirming 25% benchmark). Additionally, as 23 noted below, approximately 42% (or $1,117,123.34) of the Attorneys' fees requested will only be 24 paid if supported by the Voucher redemption rate. Thus, Class Counsel's fee is commensurate with 25 the value provided to the Class.

26 Regarding the second and third Bluetooth factors, the parties have removed the clear-sailing 27 provision from the Settlement Agreement and agreed to increase the amount of Vouchers provided 28

1 thereunder. See Amendment, at ¶¶ 4, 10. Thus, the clear-sailing provision is no longer an issue.<sup>17</sup>
 2 Additionally, any reversion of fees should be tempered by the increase in the Vouchers provided. The 3 Court reduced Class Counsel’s attorney’s fees from $3,214,582.86 to $2,612,500, or $602,082.86.
 4 Order on Final Approval, ECF No. 146, at ¶ 14. The one million dollar increase in the value of 5 Vouchers provided offsets, in part, this “reversion.” Similarly, the Amendment links the Attorneys’ 6 requested by Class Counsel to the Vouchers Redeemed, as required by 28 U.S.C. § 1712. See 7 Amendment, at ¶¶ 8-9, 10. This will also alleviate the risks associated with clear-sailing and reversion 8 provisions, because Counsel’s payment will be dictated by the statutory requirements of CAFA and 9 not solely on the agreement of the parties. In re Volkswagen “Clean Diesel” Mktg., Sales Practices, 10 & Prod. Liab. Litig., 895 F.3d 597, 611 (9th Cir. 2018) (“ For all these factors, considerations, “subtle 11 signs,” and red flags, however, the underlying question remains this: Is the settlement fair? The factors 12 and warning signs identified in Hanlon, Staton, In re Bluetooth, and other cases are useful, but in the 13 end are just guideposts.”)

14 A. Class Counsel’s Fees are Reasonable and will be Based on the Voucher
 15 Redemption Rate

16 Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1712, paragraph (c), if a proposed settlement in a class action provides 17 coupons to class members and also provides for equitable relief, including injunctive relief, the Court 18 must separately apportion the attorneys’ fees to be paid to class counsel that is based upon the recovery 19 of the coupons and the portion of the attorneys’ fees to be paid to class counsel that is not based 20 coupons. In re HP Inkjet Printer Litig., 716 F.3d 1173, 1183 (9th Cir. 2013). The attorneys’ fees 21 attributable to the coupon portion of the Settlement must be “based on the value to class members of 22 the coupons that are redeemed.” 28 U.S.C. § 1712(a). And attorneys’ fees attributable to the 23 injunctive relief “shall be based upon the amount of time class counsel reasonably expended working 24 on the action.” 28 U.S.C. § 1712(b)(1).

25 The Ninth Circuit has provided guidance on the application of 28 U.S.C. § 1712 to “mixed”

---

26 <sup>17</sup>Even if there is some lingering concern regarding the clear-sailing provision from the Settlement 27 Agreement, it should not displace the approval of the Settlement. Larsen v. Trader Joe’s Co., No. 11-28 CV-05188-WHO, 2014 WL 3404531, at *8 (N.D. Cal. July 11, 2014) (“All of the Churchill factors support the finding that the settlement should be approved. The only Bluetooth factor present, the existence of a ‘clear sailing’ provision, will not affect the class because, as discussed below, I shall award the requested 28% attorneys’ fees, an amount within the acceptable range in this Circuit.”)

1 settlements:

2 The practical effect of § 1712(c) is that the district court must perform two separate 3 calculations to fully compensate class counsel. First, under subsection (a), the court 4 must determine a reasonable contingency fee based on the actual redemption value of 5 the coupons awarded. Second, under subsection (b), the court must determine a 6 reasonable lodestar amount to compensate class counsel for any non-coupon relief obtained. This lodestar amount can be further adjusted upwards or downwards using an appropriate multiplier. § 1712(b)(2). In the end, the total amount of fees awarded under subsection (c) will be the sum of the amounts calculated under subsections (a) and (b).

7 In re HP Inkjet Printer Litig., 716 F.3d at 1184–85 (fn. omitted).

8 In this case, the Injunctive Relief provides a significant benefit to consumers based on the 9 material to the Membership Agreement used by MEF’s franchisees. This change in business practices 10 is a concession which warrants the awarding of reasonable attorneys’ fees. Section 1021.5 of the 11 California Code of Civil Procedure authorizes a court (including a federal court) to award attorneys’ 12 fees to a party who has achieved “the enforcement of an important right affecting the public interest.”
 13 See id.; see also Klein v. City of Laguna Beach, 810 F.3d 693, 701 (9th Cir. Jan. 14, 2016) (“When 14 California plaintiffs prevail in federal court on California claims, they may obtain attorneys’ fees under 15 section 1021.5.”) To be eligible for a fee award pursuant to C.C.P. § 1021.5, a party need not win at 16 summary judgment or trial. Rather, as the California Supreme Court has explained:

17 The appropriate benchmarks in determining which party prevailed are (a) the situation 18 immediately prior to the commencement of suit, and (b) the situation today, and the role, if any, played by the litigation in effecting any changes between the two.

19 Maria P. v. Riles, 43 Cal. 3d 1281, 1291 (1987) (internal citations omitted), accord MacDonald v.
 20 Ford Motor Co., No. 13-CV-02988-JST, 2015 WL 6745408, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 2, 2015).

21 A plaintiff who obtains changed practices, even during the litigation, meets the “prevailing 22 party” standard. See, e.g., Texas State Teachers Ass’n v. Garland Indep. Sch. Dist., 489 U.S. 782 23 (1989) (explaining that under certain statutes, a “prevailing party must be one who has succeeded on 24 any significant claim affording it some of the relief sought, either pendente lite or at the conclusion of 25 the litigation”); see also Tipton-Whittingham v. City of Los Angeles, 316 F.3d 1058, 1062 (9th Cir.
 26 2003), certified question answered, 34 Cal. 4th 604 (2004) (“California law continues to recognize 27 the catalyst theory and does not require ‘a judicially recognized change in the legal relationship 28 between the parties’ as a prerequisite for obtaining attorney fees under Code of Civil Procedure section

1 1021.5.”). And as a prevailing party, plaintiff can apply for attorneys’ fees under C.C.P. § 1021.5.

2 Here, the monetary benefit provided through the Injunctive Relief can be reduced to a 3 monetary value because it will delay prices increases enacted by Massage Envy franchisees for a new 4 forty-five-day notice period and the time to cancel a membership will be reduced from thirty to ten 5 days. Under the original terms of the named Plaintiffs’ member agreements, price increases may 6 arguably occur after ten -days’ notice and it took thirty days for cancelations to become effective. See 7 Krinsk Decl. I, Ex. C. As a result, Massage Envy members now have thirty-five additional days to 8 decide whether they want to pay the new price or cancel their membership. Accordingly, consumers 9 who do not cancel their membership get an additional thirty-five days at the lower price (the “Delay 10 Benefit”). Moreover, consumers who cancel their membership can do so without occurring a price 11 increase (the “Mitigation Benefit”). Finally, this forty-five-day notice period gives consumers 12 additional time to use massages accrued membership services before having to cancel to avoid a price 13 increase (the “Accrual Benefit”). See generally Sacks Decl., Ex. A.

14 Dr. Dippon was able to value each of these different ‘benefits’ separately to determine the total 15 value of the Injunctive Relief:

Valuation Class	June 2019 - Dec 2021	2022 - 2024 (forecasted)	TOTAL
Delay Benefits	$2,016,846	$3,117,965	$5,134,811
Mitigation Benefits	$51,836	$77,949	$129,785
Accrual Benefits	$281,206	$540,101	$821,307
TOTAL	$2,349,887	$3,736,016	$6,085,903

16
17 18 19 20
21 Id., at ¶ 63. Dr. Dippon also was able to demonstrate that consumers had already reaped $2.3 million 22 of the value provided by the Injunctive Relief. Such detailed, real world, analysis shows that the 23 Injunctive Relief provided, and will continue provide, significant relief.

24 When Plaintiffs compare the estimated value of coupon portion of the Settlement ($5.3 25 million in estimated redeemed Vouchers) with the non-coupon portion of the Settlement 26 ($6,085,903.00 in Injunctive Relief and $1,008,654.97 in administration costs), the non-coupon 27 portion of the Settlement makes up approximately 57.24 percent of the benefits provided. If we were 28 to split the requested attorneys’ fees $2,612,500 by the same ratio, $1,495,376.66 would be

1 attributable to the non-coupon portion and $1,117,123.34 to the coupon portion of the Settlement.

2 The $1,117,123.34 in attorneys' fees which is subject to the coupon portion, should only be 3 awarded when and if the redemption rate for the Vouchers justifies it. 28 U.S.C. § 1712(a).<sup>18</sup>
 4 However, the Court can and should award the Class Counsel fees based on the non-coupon valued 5 relief more immediately. 28 U.S.C. § 1712(b), (c); In re HP Inkjet Printer Litig., 716 F.3d at 1186-6 67 n.19 (noting that courts can bifurcate a fee award, by providing an immediate payment for benefits 7 that are subject to immediate evaluation and delaying the fees attributed to the coupon for a later date);
 8 Chambers v. Whirlpool Corp., 980 F.3d 645, 661 (9th Cir. 2020) (same). Accordingly, the Court 9 should examine whether the $1,495,376.66 in attorneys' fees attributable to the non-coupon portion 10 is reasonable.

11 1. Lodestar Method

12 A lodestar analysis compares counsel's request for fees to the actual hours spent on a case.
 13 Under the lodestar method, the court multiplies a reasonable number of hours by a reasonable hourly 14 rate. Class Plaintiffs v. City of Seattle, 19 F.3d 1291, 1294 n. 2 (9th Cir. 1994). "The court may then 15 enhance the lodestar with a 'multiplier,' if necessary, to arrive at a reasonable fee." Id. "It is an 16 established practice in the private legal market to reward attorneys for taking the risk of non-payment 17 by paying them a premium over their normal hourly rates for winning contingency cases." Fischel v.
 18 Equitable Life Assur. Society of U.S., 307 F.3d 997, 1008 (9th Cir. 2002). Additionally, courts often 19 recognize that "the complexity of this case, the risks involved and the length of the litigation" should 20 be considered when determining the equitable amount of payable fees. See Vizcaino, 290 F.3d at 21 1051. In this case, Class Counsel seeks an attorneys' fee award of $1,495,376.66, which reflects a 22 modest 1.59 multiplier on their lodestar.

23 a. Class Counsel's Rates Are Reasonable

24 Class Counsel's 2019 rates<sup>19</sup> are reasonable because they are consistent with, if not lower than, 25 hourly rates charged by attorneys of comparable experience, reputation, and ability for similar 26 <sup>18</sup> Class Counsel will submit a motion for the coupon portion of the attorneys' fees after the 27 Redemption Period expires 16 months follow the effective date.

28 <sup>19</sup> The hourly rates listed above are the usual and customary rates set by Class Counsel for each individual back in 2019. Krinsk Decl. II, ¶ 121. Plaintiffs do not seek to increase their rates from the previously Final Approval hearing. This increases the reasonableness of Counsel's proposed rates.

Rates Other Courts Have Awarded. “[R]ate determinations in other cases, particularly those setting a rate for the plaintiffs’ attorney, are satisfactory evidence of the prevailing market rate.” United Steelworkers of American v. Phelps Dodge Corp., 896 F.2d 403, 407 (9th Cir. 1990). When similar cases are examined, Class Counsel’s rates are consistent with the rates charged by firms practicing in this District. See, e.g., Congdon, 2019 WL 2327922, at *6 (finding that hourly rates of between $200 and $750, in a national breach of contract/conversion class action, were reasonable) citing In re MagSafe Apple Power Adapter Litig., No. 5:09-cv-01911 EJD, 2015 WL 428105, at *12 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 30, 2015) (“In the Bay Area, reasonable hourly rates for partners range from $560 to $800, for associates from $285 to $510[.]”); In re High-Tech Employee Antitrust Litig., No. 11-CV-02509 LHK, 2015 WL 5158730, at *9 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 2, 2015) (awarding partners rates “from about $490 to $975” and non-partners “from about $310 to $800”); Banas v. Volcano Corp., No. 12-cv-01535 WHO, 2014 WL 7051682, at *5 (N.D. Cal. 2014) (finding rates ranging from $355 to $1,095 per hour for partners and associates were within the range of prevailing rates).

Survey Data. Courts have frequently used survey data in evaluating the reasonableness of 1 attorneys' fees. Cleo D. Mathis & Vico Prods. Mfg. Co. v. Spears, 857 F.2d 749, 755-56 (9th Cir.

 2 1988). The 2016 Real Rate Report in Brief by Wolters Kluwer reflects the annual billing rates actually 3 paid by clients. The Report indicates that partners billed, on average, $595; associates billed $400;
 4 and paralegals billed $172 in San Francisco. See Krinsk Decl. III, ¶ 80, Ex. D, at p. 5. The Report
 5 also notes the average rate for "Commercial, Litigation" in San Francisco was $544. Id. Similarly, 6 United States Consumer Law Attorney Fee Survey Report 2015-2016 found that that the median billing 7 rate for "Attorneys Handling Class Action Cases" in California is $513. Id., at ¶ 81, Ex. E at p. 43.
 8 For San Francisco, the survey found that attorneys' rates generally ranged from $350 (for the 25% 9 median rate for attorneys) and $725 (for the 95% median rate for attorneys). Id.

10 Blended Rate. The reasonableness of Class Counsel's rates is further supported by the blended 11 lodestar, calculated by taking the total lodestar and dividing it by the total hours of all attorney 12 timekeepers and one staff person who will be in charge of assisting on this case post-Motion. The 13 blended rate in this case for Class Counsel is $511.55 ($1,638,760.00 divided by 3203.5 hours). Krinsk 14 Decl. III, ¶ 83. This is in line with the average rate listed in recent surveys. See id., at ¶ 83, Ex. D, at 15 p. 5 (average commercial litigation rate was $544 in San Francisco); Ex. E, p. 43 (the median billing 16 rate for class action litigation in California is $513). This blend hourly rate also supports the contention 17 that Counsel reasonably staffed the case and did not overly rely on more expensive partners to 18 complete tasks performed by junior attorneys. See Hayes v. MagnaChip Semiconductor Corp., No.
 19 14-CV-01160-JST, 2016 WL 6902856, at *8 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 21, 2016) (After finding over reliance 20 on the work of partners, the Court order that a blend rate of $600 more accurately reflects a reasonable 21 rate.).

22 Class Counsel's hourly rates, clearly on par with the prevailing market rates of attorneys in 23 this District, are reasonable, particularly given counsel's demonstrated skill, experience and reputation 24 in the area of complex class action litigation.<sup>21</sup>

25 <sup>21</sup> Class Counsel also seeks compensation for its support staff, such as paralegals and law clerks, 26 which is permitted:

27 The key ... is the billing custom in the "relevant market." Thus, fees for work performed 28 by non-attorneys such as paralegals may be billed separately, at market rates, if this is "the prevailing practice in a given community," ... Indeed, even purely clerical or secretarial

b. The Hours Expended by Class Counsel are Reasonable

1 “Beyond establishing a reasonable hourly rate, a party seeking attorneys’ fees bears the burden
2 to “document[ ] the appropriate hours expended.” Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 437 (1983)
3 accord Roberts v. Marshalls of CA, LLC, No. 13-CV-4731-MEJ, 2018 WL 510286, at *15 (N.D. Cal.
4 Jan. 23, 2018). Class Counsel, however, “is not required to record in great detail how each minute of 5 his time was expended,” but should “identify the general subject matter of his [or her] time 6 expenditures.” Id. at 437 n. 12.

7 Over the last approximate three years of litigation, Class Counsel expended a total of 3,176.30
8 attorney, law clerk, and paralegal/legal assistant hours (excluding the time to prepare the to-be-drafted 9 Motion for Final Approval, its supporting declarations, and other post-application work, which will 10 conservatively add at least 100 post-application hours). Krinsk Decl. III, ¶ 77. This case was 11 particularly hard fought with Defendant filing numerous motions to stay the action [ECF Nos. 27, 53], 12 a Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings [ECF No. 26], a Motion for Certification of Order for 13 Interlocutory Appeal [ECF No. 52]. Plaintiff filed an Amended Complaint [ECF. No. 60], a Motion 14 to Strike Defendant’s Affirmative Defenses [ECF No. 24], and a Motion to Quash [ECF. No. 79].
15 Furthermore, the parties fully briefed a petition for mandamus. See Massage Envy Franchising, LLC
16 v. United States District Court for the Northern District of California, No. 17-71722, ECF. Nos. 1-4
17 (9th Cir.). This does not include the numerous requests for judicial notices [ECF No. 25, 26-1, 27-1, 18 43], motions to shorten time [ECF No. 29, 54], and other administrative matters. Krinsk Decl. III, ¶¶

20 class certification motion at the time of settlement. Id., ¶ 40.

21 Class Counsel likewise engaged in a significant amount of discovery, settlement negotiations, 22 and communications with the Class, which is not reflected in the docket. The Settlement was only 26 Trustees of the Const. Indus. & Laborers Health & Welfare Trust v. Redland Ins. Co., 460 F.3d 1253, 28 reasonableness. In re Volkswagen “Clean Diesel” Mktg. Litig., No. 2672 CRB, 2017 WL 1047834, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 17, 2017) (rates of $80 to $490 for paralegals are reasonable.).

1 negotiations were informed by Class Counsel's review of several sets of written discovery responses 2 (which involved significant meet and confer to secure), thousands of pages of documents, and 3 Plaintiffs' depositions. Id., ¶ 42-47. Even after the parties reached a settlement in principle, Class 4 Counsel worked with Defendant to draft the Class Notices and has fielded numerous telephone calls 5 and emails from the Settlement Class.

9 The 3203.5 total hours expended by Class Counsel on this case is not excessive when compared 10 to the necessary effort.

11 c. The Request Multiplier is Warranted

12 The lodestar calculation is not limited to hours expended and the hourly rate. The Court 13 normally further applies a “multiplier” to Class Counsel’s lodestar to determine the appropriate fee 14 award. Class Plaintiffs, 19 F.3d at 1294 n. 2. To determine whether the lodestar multiplier is 15 reasonable, such factors may be considered: (1) the amount involved and the results obtained; (2) the 16 novelty and difficulty of the questions involved; (3) the skill requisite to perform the legal service 17 properly; (4) the preclusion of other employment by the attorney due to acceptance of the case; (5) the 18 customary fee (6) whether the fee is fixed or contingent; (7) time limitations imposed by the client or 19 the circumstances; (8) the amount involved and the results obtained; (9) the experience, reputation, 20 and ability of the attorneys; and (10) awards in similar cases. See Fischel, 307 F.3d at 1006–07.
21 Applying these factors warrant the 1.59 multiplier requested by Class Counsel.

22 Here, the coupon and non-coupon relief stems from the same litigation of the same causes of 23

24 <sup>22</sup> Class Counsel provides billing summaries for the Court. In re Synthroid Mktg. Litig., 264 F.3d 25 712, 722 (7th Cir. 2001) (“If counsel submit bills with the level of detail that paying clients find 26 satisfactory, a federal court should not require more.”); In re HPL Techs., Inc. Sec. Litig., 366 F. Supp.
27 2d 912, 920 (N.D. Cal. 2005) (“The Sidener declaration breaks out the hours expended by lead counsel 28 into five categories... This is an especially helpful compromise between reporting hours in the aggregate (which is easy to review, but lacks informative detail) and generating a complete line-by-line billing report (which offers great detail, but tends to obscure the forest for the trees).”). To the extent that the Court requires Counsel’s individual time entries, Counsel is prepared to provide such documentation. (See N.D. Cal. Procedural Guidance for Class Action Settlements.)

1 action, so it is not so easy separate out the hours attributable to the Injunctive Relief. However, the 2 lodestar in this case ($1,638,760) is still less than the $1,495,376.66 currently requested. But if one 3 was to assume that 57.24 percent of the value provided to the Settlement Class is non-coupon relief 4 (as noted above) and was to reduce the lodestar accordingly (57.24 percent of $1,638,760), one would 5 get $938,026.22 in attorneys' fees. Accordingly, the amount requested would result in a 1.59 6 multiplier ($1,495,376.66 divided by $938,026.22) even under this less favorable calculation.

7 Plaintiffs achieved substantial relief on behalf of the Class. As discussed in above, the non-8 coupon portion of the Settlement results in a $7,094,557.97 benefit to the Class ($6,085,903.00 in 9 Injunctive Relief and $1,008,654.97 in administration costs). Furthermore, this litigation has been 10 demanding. The parties have collectively filed numerous motions, amended their pleadings, 11 propounded over a hundred sets of discovery requests, briefed a writ petition for mandamus, taken 12 three depositions, issued multiple subpoenas, and attended numerous in person and telephonic 13 settlement discussion (including two and half days of mediations). See generally Krinsk Decl. II, ¶ 14 16-48. Plaintiffs had drafted their Motion for Summary Adjudication and were preparing the Motion 15 for Class Certification at the time the parties finally agreed to terms. Id. Therefore, it is not surprising 16 that Class Counsel have devoted an enormous amount of time vigorously prosecuting this litigation 17 on behalf of the Class.

18 Although, at first blush, the First Amended Complaint represents a relatively simple contract 19 claim, this litigation is complex both in its scope and the legal issues involved. The Settlement Class 20 includes approximately 1.7 million members, with numerous contractual variations, who executed 21 their Membership Agreements over a span of more than ten years. The case also involved the business 22 practices of Defendant and its approximately 1,200 franchised clinics and numerous price increases 23 (which occurred at different times, in different amounts, in different regions). Given the number of 24 variables, even the most straight-forward claims and defenses become difficult to investigate and 25 present to the trier of fact.

26 This lawsuit also transcends normal breach of contract cases. First, the parties contested the 27 identity of the contracting parties to the Membership Agreement. See Defendant's Amended Answer 28 [ECF No. 69]. This dispute arises from Defendant's franchise business model. Each of the individual

1 Massage Envy franchised locations are independent entities having separate ownership. Defendant
2 asserts that it is their franchised locations that contract with the consumers. Of course, Plaintiffs 3 disagreed. Nonetheless, it was an issue that would need to be addressed at trial and would undoubtedly 4 complicate the case. See, e.g., Defendant’s Amended Answer [ECF No. 69], at p. 22 (asserting a 5 defense for “Failure to Join Indispensable Parties” regarding the franchised locations).

6 Moreover, Class Members paid their monthly membership amount to their “Home Clinic.” In 7 turn, each Massage Envy franchise paid a modest share of their revenue to Defendant under the 8 applicable Franchise Agreements. Defendant has, therefore, consistently argued that any liability in 9 this case is limited to its share of these revenues. See, e.g., Defendant’s Amended Answer [ECF No.
10 69]. Again, the multiple parties involved in Defendant’s franchise business model muddled legal 11 issues attendant to the case.<sup>23</sup>

12 These complexities also engender increased risk for both the Class and Class Counsel. Such a 13 risk is particularly acute as Counsel has taken this case on a contingent basis. Krinsk Decl. II, ¶ 109.
14 “It is an established practice in the private legal market to reward attorneys for taking the risk of non-15 payment by paying them a premium over their normal hourly rates for winning contingency cases.” 16 Fischel, 307 F.3d at 1008. “This provides the ‘necessary incentive’ for attorneys to bring actions to 17 protect individual rights and to enforce public policies.” Id. Indeed, “[o]ne of the most common fee 18 enhancers ... is for contingency risk. ‘A lawyer who both bears the risk of not being paid and provides 19 legal services is not receiving the fair market value of his work if he is paid only for the second of 20 these functions. If he is paid no more, competent counsel will be reluctant to accept fee award cases.’” 21 See Browne v. Am. Honda Motor Co., No. CV 09-06750, 2010 WL 9499073, at *11 (C.D. Cal. Oct.
22 5, 2010) citing Graham v. DaimlerChrysler Corp., 34 Cal. 4th 553, 579-80 (2004), as modified (Jan.
23 12, 2005).

24 Class Counsel’s risk was multiplied by the fact that Counsel has a relatively limited number of 25 attorneys (between five and six attorneys during the litigation of this case) and the aggressive litigation
26 required that Class Counsel periodically dedicate the vast majority of their staff to this case. Krinsk

27 <sup>23</sup> These ‘trial’ issues do not include Defendant’s novel argument regarding the abridgment of the 28 “Identical Factual Predicate” Rule that was the subject of Defendant’s Petition of Mandamus and likely any appeal in this case.

1 Decl. II, ¶ 111. This constricted Class Counsel’s ability to take on other matters. Id.

2 Class Counsel faced dogged opposition in both the litigation and settlement negotiations.
 3 Defendant was represented by experienced lawyers from two well-respected law firms (Sacks Ricketts 4 and Case LLP and Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, LLP), each of which have a deserved reputation for 5 vigorous advocacy. Id., ¶ 16. Class Counsel's ability to obtain this Settlement with such formidable 6 opposition confirms the quality of Class Counsel's representation of the Class. See, e.g., In re Equity 7 Funding Corp. Sec. Litig., 438 F.Supp. 1303, 1337 (C.D. Cal. 1977). The Class also benefited from 8 Class Counsel’s extensive experience with class action litigation, particularly against this Defendant
 9 and its counsel. See Hahn v. Massage Envy Franchising, LLC, No. 12CV153 DMS, 2014 WL
 10 5100220 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 25, 2014) & Hahn v. Massage Envy Franchising, LLC, No. 12CV153 DMS, 11 2014 WL 5099373 (S.D. Cal. Apr. 15, 2014). Such expertise was invaluable in resourcefully litigating 12 the Class’s claims, as well as negotiating the Settlement.

13 Indeed, the resulting multiplier sought by Plaintiffs is 1.59, a relatively unexceptional amount 14 in comparison to multipliers frequently approved by the Ninth Circuit. See, e.g., Vizcaino, 290 F.3d
 15 at 1051 (upholding multiplier of “3.65”); In re Wachovia Corp. "Pick-A-Payment" Mortg. Mktg. &
 16 Sales Practices Litig., No. 5:09-MD-02015-JF, 2011 WL 1877630, at *7 (N.D. Cal. May 17, 2011)
 17 (multiplier of 2.2 "is well within the acceptable range"); In re Mercury Interactive Corp. Sec. Litig., 18 No. 5:05-CV-03395-JF, 2011 WL 826797, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 3, 2011) (multiplier of 3.08 "is within 19 the acceptable range"); Thieriot v. Celtic Ins. Co., No. C-10-04462-LB, 2011 WL 1522385, at *7 (N.D.
 20 Cal. Apr. 21, 2011) (multiplier of 1.94 is “within the customary range”); City of Roseville Employees' 21 Ret. Sys. v. Micron Tech., Inc., No. 06-CV-85-WFD, 2011 WL 1882515, at *7 (D. Idaho Apr. 28, 22 2011), aff'd sub nom., 484 F. App'x 138 (9th Cir. 2012) (multiplier of 2.72 "is relatively standard").
 23 The length and complexity of the work performed by Counsel warrants the award of the amount fees 24 of requested.

25 2. Percentage of the Fund

26 Class Counsel’s fees are also appropriate when cross-checked under a “Percentage of the 27 Fund” analysis. “Under the percentage-of-recovery method, the attorneys' fees equal some percentage 28 of the common settlement fund[.]” In re Online DVD, 779 F.3d at 949. In the Ninth Circuit, “courts

1 typically calculate 25% of the fund as the ‘benchmark’ for a reasonable fee award.” In re Bluetooth, 2 654 F.3d at 942. However, federal courts in California have previously found 20% to 40% of the 3 common fund to be a reasonable award of attorneys’ fees and cost in a class action. See Class
4 Plaintiffs, 19 F.3d at 1297; See Vizvaino, 290 F.3d 1043, 1050 n.4, Appendix A (conducting a survey 5 of attorneys’ fees in class cases and finding that courts awarded between 3-40 percent of the 6 settlement). This variation reflects that the “benchmark percentage should be adjusted..., when special 7 circumstances indicate that the percentage recovery would be either too small or too large in light of 8 the hours devoted to the case or other relevant factors.” Six Mexican Workers v. Ariz. Citrus Growers, 9 904 F.2d 1301, 1311 (9th Cir. 1990).

10 To calculate an appropriate percentage, the Ninth Circuit examines the “gross” settlement 11 benefit (and not the “net” common fund—deducting litigation, notice, and claims administration 12 expenses). See In re Online DVD, 779 F.3d at 953 (affirming attorney fee award “as a percentage of 13 the total settlement fund, including notice and administrative costs, and litigation expenses”) (citing 14 Powers v. Eichen, 229 F.3d 1249, 1258 (9th Cir 2000) (rejecting the requirement to base an award on 15 a percentage of the net recovery) & Staton v. Boeing Co., 327 F.3d 938, 974-75 (9th Cir. 2003) (“The 16 district court also did not abuse its discretion by including the cost of providing notice to the class ...
17 as part of its putative fund valuation.... We have said that ‘the choice of whether to base an attorneys’ 18 fee award on either net or gross recovery should not make a difference so long as the end result is 19 reasonable.”)).

20 In re Online DVD-Rental Antitrust Litig. is instructive. Under the In re Online DVD settlement 21 agreement, defendant “agreed to pay a total amount of $27,250,000, comprising both a ‘Cash
22 Component’ and a ‘Gift Card Component,’ in exchange for dismissal with prejudice of all claims 23 asserted in the complaint.” In re Online DVD, 779 F.3d at 940. From this fund, defendant would also 24 agree to pay class counsel’s fees and expenses, costs of notice and administration, and incentive 25 payments to class representatives. Id. The Ninth Circuit upheld the District Court’s decision to award 26 class counsel 25% of the “overall” settlement fund of $27,250,000, not just the “net” fund. Id., at 949, 27 953. In doing so, the Ninth Circuit counselled “that the reasonableness of attorneys’ fees is not 28 measured by the choice of the denominator.” Id., at 953.

1 The $1,495,376.66 in fees requested by Class Counsel equals 20.08 percent of the “non 2 coupon” settlement benefit ($1,495,376.66 divided by $7,094,557.97 [$6,085,903.00 in Injunctive 3 Relief and $1,008,654.97 in administration costs]). This percentage is easily within the range of 4 reasonableness accepted by this Circuit. See, e.g., Vizvaino, 290 F.3d 1043 at 1052-54 (finding that 5 courts have awarded between 3 and 40 percent of the settlements in class actions); Torrissi v. Tucson
 6 Elec. Power Co., 8 F.3d 1370, 1376 (9th Cir. 1993) (reaffirming 25% benchmark); Wren v. RGIS
 7 Inventory Specialists, No. C-06-05778 JCS, 2011 WL 1230826, at *29 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 1, 2011)
 8 (awarding 42%). An upward departure from the 25% benchmark (assuming the Court considers the 9 “net” settlement benefit) is warranted for the same reasons provided in the previous section. See,
 10 supra, section III(B)(3) (auguring for the use of a lodestar multiplier); Vizcaino, 290 F.3d at 1048-50 11 (Factors relevant to a determination of the percentage ultimately awarded include: (1) the results 12 achieved; (2) the risk of litigation; (3) the skill required and quality of work; (4) the contingent nature 13 of the fee and the financial burden carried by the plaintiffs; and (5) awards made in similar cases.)

14 The Court can verify under both a lodestar analysis and/or a percentage-recovery methodology 15 that the amount requested as fees is reasonable. Class Counsel, therefore, requests that the Court 16 award $1,495,376.66 as recoverable attorneys’ fees at final approval, with the remaining 17 $1,117,123.34 to be potentially award only after the redemption period ends.

18 B. Class Counsel’s Costs Are Reasonable

19 Class Counsel also seeks reimbursement of their reasonable routinely reimbursed expenses in 20 the amount of $65,593.05. See FED. R. CIV. P. 23(h). This sum represents the normal costs that “would 21 typically be billed to paying clients in non-contingency matters,” and include: Transportation and 22 Meals: $16,443.69 (Class Counsel’s travel and meal expenses to defend depositions, to meet with 23 witnesses and/or opposing counsel, and attend mediations and hearings); Photocopying: $1,219.48; 24 Filing and Service of Process Fees: $2,247.50; Document Hosting and Discovery: $6,552.34 (these 25 expenses were paid to attorney service firms to host and process electronic discovery); Court Hearings, 26 Deposition Reporting, and Transcripts: $6,024.60; Mediation: $25,500; Online Research Expenses:
 27 $97.85; and Mail and Courier Expenses: $596.94, plus post-appeal costs of Copying and Messenger 28 Services for the Appeal: 285.65 and •Meditation: $6,625.00. In re Omnivision Techs., Inc., 559 F.

1 Supp. 2d 1036, 1048 (N.D. Cal. 2008); Krinsk Decl. II., ¶¶ 126-27.<sup>24</sup> These costs are not 2 disproportionate to the needs of the litigation relative to the Settlement benefit to the Settlement Class.

3 C. The Settlement Class Representatives Have Earned, and Public Policy Supports, 4 the Requested Service Awards

5 The original Settlement provided for an incentive award of $10,000 to each of the three 6 Plaintiffs. However, the Court reduced the incentive fees for each of the Named-Plaintiffs from 7 $10,000 to $5,000 at the previous final approval hearing. Order on Final Approval, ECF No. 146, at 8 ¶ 15. Plaintiffs agree to only seek this reduced amount.

9 Incentive awards are a normal feature of a class action settlement, Rodriguez v. West Publ'g
10 Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 958 (9th Cir. 2009), and provide compensation for the time and effort each 11 Plaintiff expended in pursuing the litigation on behalf of the Class. See Staton, 327 F.3d at 977 (citing 12 Cook, 142 F.3d at 1016). The requested $5,000 incentive award to each Plaintiff is the normal amount 13 awarded in similar cases and is reasonable given Plaintiffs' significant involvement in this case, 14 combined with the risks they bore. See Hawthorne v. Umpqua Bank, No. 11-CV-06700-JST, 2015 15 WL 1927342, at *8 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 28, 2015) ("Many courts in the Ninth Circuit have also held that 16 a $ 5,000 incentive award is 'presumptively reasonable.'"); In re Online DVD-Rental, 779 F.3d at 947-17 48 (district court did not abuse discretion in approving $5,000 incentive awards for each of the class 18 representatives). Each Plaintiff provided meaningful contributions to the litigation. Plaintiffs initiated 19 this litigation and engaged experienced counsel. See generally Declaration of Baerbel McKinney-20 Drobnis ("McKinney Decl."), ECF No. 119-10; Declaration of Joseph B. Piccola, ECF No. 119-12
21 ("Piccola Decl."); and Declaration of Camille Berlese ("Berlese Decl."), ECF No. 119-11. Plaintiffs 22 were deposed and responded to MEF's written discovery requests. Id. Plaintiffs also were active 23 participants in the case: regularly supervising and directing Class Counsel's litigation decisions, 24 reviewing numerous case filings, and making themselves available during mediations and settlement 25 sessions. Id. Plaintiffs' collectively spent hundreds of hours to advocate for the Class's claims.
26 Piccola Decl., at ¶ 21; Krinsk Decl. I, at ¶ 99.

27 <sup>24</sup> Plaintiffs had previously claimed Claims Administration costs of $26,724.74 for additional 28 notices in its previous Motion for Attorneys' Fees, Costs, and Incentive Award, ECF No. 119-1.
However, MEF confirmed that they had paid the outstanding amount. Accordingly, the parties agreed that this amount should not be awarded, as noted on the final approve hearing transcript.

1 Plaintiffs also were subjected to extensive, contentious litigation. Not only did Plaintiffs have 2 to defend themselves, Plaintiffs were necessarily required to respond to broad and intrusive discovery
 3 requests propounded on their friends and family members. MEF subpoenaed the wife of Mr. Piccola 4 (Kathleen “Kay” Piccola), the husband of Ms. McKinney-Drobnis (Burton Drobnis), and the husband 5 (Robert Berlese), daughters (Lia Berlese and Angela Berlese), son (Christopher Berlese) and an 6 acquaintance (Michael Damiani) of Ms. Berlese. McKinney Decl.; Piccola Decl.; Berlese Decl.; see 7 also Motion to Quash Subpoenas [ECF No. 79]; Joint Letter Regarding Discovery Dispute [ECF No.
 8 83]. Accordingly, a $5,000 incentive award is reasonable and warranted.

9 VI. THE SETTLEMENT ADEQUATELY APPRISED THE CLASS OF THEIR RIGHTS
 10 UNDER THE SETTLEMENT

11 A. The Notice Previously Provided Was Adequate

12 Pursuant to the Court’s Preliminary Approval Order, ECF No. 114, and Order Approving 13 Stipulation to Change Hearing for Final Approval and Directing Class Counsel to Provide Notice, 14 ECF No. 130, and according to the terms of the Settlement, the Settlement Administrator initially 15 provided 1,361,394 Email Notices and 178,573 Postcard Notices to Class Members. Azari Decl. I, ¶ 16 7. Additionally, a reminder email was sent to 1,135,216 Class Members whose original Email Notice 17 had not bounced and who had not submitted a Voucher Request. Id., ¶ 7. This notice regime was 18 approved the Court at Final Approval, ECF No. 146, and the Court’s finding was not challenged on 19 appeal. Accordingly, there is no reason to displace the Court’s prior finding. Nonetheless, when the 20 Class Notice is examined, it was reasonably calculated to inform the Settlement Class of the Settlement 21 and their rights thereunder.

22 This Notice effort resulted in individualized notice being provided to 96.5% of the identified 23 Settlement Class. Id., ¶ 13.<sup>25</sup> Additionally, the notice efforts gave rise to a settlement participation 24 rate that exceeded Class Counsel’s original estimates. Compare Motion for Preliminary Approval of 25 Class Action Settlement, ECF No. 103, at p. 10 (predicting a 4.65% (the same as the Hahn, et al. v.
 26 Massage Envy Franchising LLP settlement) with Azari Decl. I, ¶ 16 (the Settlement resulted in a 6.2%

27 <sup>25</sup> A Long Form Notice and a paper Voucher Request was mailed via USPS first class mail to all 28 Class Members who requested one from the Settlement Administrator by calling the toll-free phone number. Azari Decl. II, ¶ 11. As of January 10, 2020, 1,159 Long Form Notices and Voucher Requests were mailed. Id.

1 claims rate). This notice program satisfies the requirements that the notice be “reasonably calculated,
 2 under all the circumstances, to apprise interested parties of the pendency of the action and afford them
 3 an opportunity to present their objections.” Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S.
 4 306, 314 (1950).<sup>26 27</sup>

5 Finally, the Court-edited, Class Notice clearly and concisely state[s] in plain, easily understood 6 language: (1) the nature of the action; (2) the definition of the Class; (3) the relevant claims, issues 7 and defenses; (4) the relief provided under the Settlement; (5) that a Class member may enter an 8 appearance through an attorney; (6) the time and manner for requesting exclusion; (7) the terms of the 9 proposed Settlement; and (8) the binding effect of a class judgment on Settlement Class members 10 under Rule 23(c)(3). See FED. R. CIV. P. 23(c)(2)(B). The Class Notice also referred Class members to 11 the Settlement website, www.messagefeesettlement.com, and a toll-free number for further 12 information, thus “suggest[ing] that the claims process was designed to encourage—not discourage—13 the filing of claims.” Azari Decl. I, ¶¶ 23-23; Schulte v. Fifth Third Bank, 805 F. Supp. 2d 560, 591

 17 “all class members have been identified by name from Defendant records” and notice administrator 18 used address updating methods, supplement notice by publication not necessary to satisfy due 19 process); Robinson v. Fountainhead Title Grp. Corp., 2009 WL 2842733 *1 (D. Md., Sep. 4, 2009) 20 (direct mailed notice with additional notice on website satisfied Rule 23 without supplemental 21 publication notice); In re Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. Wage and Hour Litig., 2008 WL 1990806, * 2 (N.D.
 22 Cal. May 5, 2008) (denying Wal-Mart’s request to include notice by publication because “the identity
 23 and location of class members can be determined through reasonable efforts using Wal-Mart’s 24 electronic records.” “[N]otice by publication is only used when the identity and location of class 25 members cannot be determined through reasonable efforts.”).

26 <sup>27</sup> The only issue with the notice that was identity was quickly resolved. Following 27 communications with two of the Objectors, Mr. and Ms. DeWitt, the parties discovered that Paid-in-28 Full members who had paid membership fee increases had not been included in the Class Data and thus had not been provided notice of the Settlement.<sup>27</sup> Declaration Of Mike Scott in Support of Stipulation to Change Hearing Date and Briefing Schedule for Final Settlement Approval (“Scott Decl.”), ECF No. 129-1, at ¶¶ 7-11. After investigating this issue, the Parties determined that “paid-in-full” members of a ME Location who are Class Members (“Omitted Members”) were inadvertently not included in the Class Data and thus were not provided Notice of the Settlement. Id., ¶ 11-12. Once these Omitted Member were identified, the Settlement Administrator provided Notice of the Settlement to them and they were given the same amount of time, as other Class Members, or until December 17, 2019, in which to submit a Voucher Request, object to the Settlement or opt out of the Settlement. See Stipulation to Change Hearing Date for Final Settlement Approval [ECF No. 129].
 Notice of the Settlement to the Omitted Members resulted in an additional 18,106 Email Notices and 4,998 Postcard Notices. Azari Decl. II, ¶ 14. On December 12, 2019, the Settlement Administrator sent 17,465 reminder emails to the Omitted Members for whom the original Email Notice did not bounce and who had not submitted a Voucher Request. Id., ¶ 11.

1 (S.D.N.Y. Jan. 18, 2000) (recognizing that the “innovative use” of “electronic claim forms is likely to 2 contribute to a far larger number of claims”); 3 Newberg on Class Actions § 8:40 (4th ed.) (“the 3 inclusion of toll-free numbers in notices serves to facilitate, and thereby encourage, the filing of 4 claims”) (collecting cases). Thus, the Court-approved Class Notice program adequately informed 5 Class Members of the proposed Settlement and satisfies Rule 23(c)(2)(B).

6 Furthermore, the Settlement provides additional notices to the participating Members of the 7 Settlement Class regarding the availability of their Vouchers. Notice will be provided when the 8 Vouchers are available for redemption, and a reminder notice will be provided more than sixty (60), 9 but not less than forty-five (45), days before the Voucher redemption period ends at MEF’s Expense.
10 Amendment at ¶ 6 (Class Counsel can also provide an additional reminder notice at their expense).
11 These notices ensure that the participating members of the Settlement Member have an opportunity to 12 use their Vouchers.

13 B. Class Notice is Not Required for the Amendment

14 Furthermore, the Court can finally approve the amended Settlement because it does not 15 substantively alter the rights of absent Class Members. Filing an amended settlement that corrects 16 deficiencies identified in a denial of final settlement approval is quite common. See e.g., Trauth v.
17 Spearmint Rhino Companies Worldwide, Inc., No. EDCV 09–01316–VAP, 2012 WL 4755682, at *1, 18 *5 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 5, 2012) (approving “renewed motions for final approval... and for attorneys fees 19 and incentive awards” submitted after amended settlement corrected deficiencies that caused the court 20 to previously deny final approval); Harris v. Vector Mktg. Corp., No. C–08–5198, 2012 WL 381202, 21 at *1 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 6, 2012) (same). As a general proposition, under Rule 23(e), modifications to a 22 settlement agreement after the Court had the opportunity to consider objections does not require a new 23 notice and opt-out period, if the modification only supplements the original relief provided. Trauth,
24 supra, at *1, *5; Harris, supra, at *1; also Klee v. Nissan N. Am., Inc., No. CV 12–08238, 2015 WL 25 4538426, *5 (C.D. Cal. July 7, 2015), aff’d (Dec. 9, 2015) (“Courts have recognized that when a 26 settlement is amended to make it more valuable, it is unnecessary to give additional notice to those 27 class members that received adequate notice of the original proposed settlement and decided not to 28 opt out.”) (citing cases).

1 Rule 23(e) has also been found not to apply to a settlement amendment that made only “minor
2 modifications which did not impair class members' rights even indirectly.” Keepseagle v. Vilsack, 102 3 F. Supp. 3d 306, 313-1 (D.D.C. 2015) citing Jones v. Gusman, 296 F.R.D. 416, 467 (E.D. La. 2013).
4 The same is true when a proposed amended settlement provides slightly fewer benefits to class 5 members than a previous settlement, for example a slightly less advantageous distribution plan. In re 6 New Motor Vehicles Canadian Export Antitrust Litig., 800 F.Supp.2d 328, 334 (D. Me. 2011) (no new 7 notice is required where an amendment results in “benefits not substantially less than those proposed 8 in the original settlement.”) quoting Principles of the Law in Aggregate Litigation § 3.05 (2010); 9 Keepseagle, 102 F. Supp. 3d at 313-14 (“an amendment requires supplemental notice only when it 10 ‘would have a material adverse effect on the rights of class members.’”) (citing cases); In re Diet
11 Drugs Products Liab. Litig., 2010 WL 2735414, at *6 (E.D. Pa. July 2, 2010) (same).

12 This is particularly true in this case, as each Settlement Class Member was informed that the 13 amount of their Voucher was always variable and was subject to change without additional notice.
14 Agreement at Ex. 2 (see the VOUCHER SETTLEMENT BENEFIT section). Additionally, this 15 briefing and the Amendment will be provided to the Settlement Class via the Settlement Website.
16 Accordingly, there is no prejudice to the Class in not providing additional notice because Class 17 Members were specifically and fully informed that the Voucher amounts may be subject to an upward 18 adjustment when they decided whether to opt out, object, or file a Voucher request. Rule 23(e) has 19 thus been satisfied, as have the due process rights of Settlement Class Members.

20 VII. CONCLUSION

21 For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiffs respectfully move this Court to issue an Order in the form 22 submitted by the parties concurrently herewith: (1) certifying the Settlement Class for settlement 23 purposes and appointing Plaintiffs as Class Representatives, Jeffrey R. Krinsk of Finkelstein & Krinsk 24 LLP as Class Counsel; (2) granting final approval of the proposed Settlement in all regards; (3) finding 25 the Notice Program was adequate and reasonable, satisfying the requirements of Rule 23; and (4) 26 directing the entry of Final Judgment, dismissing this Action (including all individual and Class claims 27 presented thereby) on the merits with prejudice.
